Communists Holding Back Prisoners, Allies Charge

Huge Betting Ring Smashed At Detroit In 21 Police Raids

DETROIT (AP)—A total of 21 raids by Detroit and state police Friday night smashed what authorities termed a "multi - million dollar mutuels ring." Fifty persons were arrested and more than $40,000 was confiscated.

Inspector Clayton Nowlin of the Detroit Vice Bureau, said the police action climaxed 18 months of investigation of the "Lucky Star" mutuels combine.

Old Racket Revived

He said the Lucky Star syndicate apparently was a renewal of operations of a ring that was smashed in raids during 1948.

Seven of the raids Friday were made on search warrants signed by Recorder's Judges W. McKay Skillman and O. Z. Ide.

Police said the remaining 14 locations raided were stores, gasoline stations and barber shops suspected of being pick-up stations.

Nowlin said most of the suspects were arrested on street corners, in their cars, at work or in their homes.

Among those arrested were Joseph and Sam Lobaido of Detroit.

They were termed key persons in the Lucky Star ring which police cracked in 1948. The breakup of the ring resulted in prison terms, fines or probationary sentences for 20 persons.

Police named Joseph Lobaido, 40, as head of the new syndicate. His brother Sam was held for investigation but Nowlin said he has not been connected with the ring's current operations.

Officers said a total of $38,470 was found in Joseph Lobaido's home. Police seized 20,000 past-dated bet slips, adding machines and tapes in the home of Guisseppi Vitale, who was held on conspiracy charges.

Besides money and gambling equipment, the raiding squads confiscated 15 cars, two trucks and six pistols.

Slips Confiscated

Police said the first raids on the ring were made after investigations resulting from "suspicions" information uncovered during the trial of another Lobaido brother, Frank. He is serving 40 years to life in Southern Michigan Prison for the rape and attempted murder of a 7-year-old girl.

Joseph and Sam Lobaido were convicted of gambling charges after the 1948 raids and were sentenced to 1½ to 5 years in prison.

Over 500 Hunt Holland Boy, 4, Lost On Friday

HOLLAND (AP) — More than 500 volunteer searchers headed into woods and marshy areas at daybreak today in a renewed search for a 4-year-old boy missing since noon Friday.

The National Guard, Boy Scouts and Coast Guardsmen hunted for Scott Rozeboom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rozeboom. The couple moved into their new home in suburban Central Park only six weeks ago.

Home Near Lake

The home is only four doors away from Lake Macatawa and police said the boy, unfamiliar with his new neighborhood, may have toppled into the lake. More than 10 boats, including Coast Guard craft, took part in dragging operations.

Ottawa County Undersheriff Clayton Forrey, directing the search, said police were also probing the possibility the boy may have been picked up by a sex deviate.

"We are going to check every known sex deviate in the area to make certain none was in the Central Park area yesterday when the boy disappeared," Forrey said.

Missed Lunch

Bloodhounds were pressed into the manhunt today, as well as a Coast Guard helicopter from Traverse City.

The boy's father is a die caster in the Grandville, Mich., factory of Jarvis Corp.

He told police Scott was last seen playing around home shortly before noon yesterday. When he failed to show up for lunch, his parents began a search for him, then summoned police. By nightfall, a posse of 600 volunteers was combing the area but found no trace of the boy.

WELCOME, BUT . . . Signboards giving motorists a welcome tempered with a warning that radar's unseen eye is watching their speed are being erected by the Oklahoma Public Safety Department on all highways leading into the state. This picture was taken on U. S. 62 a mile east of Westville at the Arkansas line.

Defense Setup Is Streamlined, Secretary Says

DETROIT (AP) —Secretary Wilson compares the Defense Department under his cost-cutting administration with a new model automobile "designed to sell for less, even though it is superior."

The former General Motors president told the Automotive Parts Manufactures Assn. in a speech here Friday night:

"Of course the new model is snappy and streamlined. It has more horsepower and better acceleration. The engine has a high compression head and new spark plugs. It has better lubrication and less internal friction.

"The model is designed to meet all requirements, and as usually claimed by the sales and advertising departments, it has better value per pound."

At a news conference earlier, Wilson criticized the "old model" Defense Department as one in which "no one figured out what you would do with all of the military equipment purchased if there was no war."

He reiterated a hope that "the expenditure rate for our total defense effort is at or near the peak."

NEW ILA CHIEF—Capt. William V. Bradley, of Staten Island, N. Y., is the new president of the International Longshoremen's Association. He suceeds Joseph P. Ryan, who resigned after 26 years as head of the union. Bradley, president of the ILA's tugboat division since 1937, was chosen as a "reform" candidate to help the organization compete with the newly organized AFL pier group.

Captives Forced Into Red Army, Koreans Claim

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies today accused the Communists of holding back some prisoners of war and told the Reds to turn over to Indian custody immediately "all those POWs you still retain."

Maj. Gen. J. K. Lacey told Communist members of the Military Armistice Commission that three Korean soldiers who sought refuge at an American sentry box Thursday were South Korean war captives who had been forced into the Red Army.

Ask For Recess

The Communists asked for a recess to study Lacey's statement, then 30 minutes later asked for and were granted more time.

The chief Allied member of the Armistice Commission told newsmen the ROK soldiers provided evidence that the Communists "have forcibly retained prisoners after they had certified that all prisoners had been turned over to the NNRC Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission."

Lacey also told the Communists to "cease delays" and get on with the job of interviewing Chinese and Korean war prisoners who have refused to go home.

No Progress On Peace

The explanation program has been stalled by Red refusal to accept Indian rules for speeding up the interviews. Lacey accused the Communists of delaying the program deliberately because of "disastrous" results.

Only about 3 per cent of the approximately 2,500 prisoners interviewed so far have elected to return to Communist rule.

Meanwhile, Allied and Communist diplomats continued efforts to arrange a Korean peace conference—without apparent progress.

U. S. envoy Arthur H. Dean accused the Reds of delaying and making a farce of the preliminary negotiations.

Condemned Kidnapers Taken To Death Row In Missouri Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., (AP) — Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Heady today were held in death row behind the gray, forbidding walls of the Missouri Penitentiary.

The condemned kidnap-killers of little Bobby Greenlease were brought here late Friday from Kansas City where they were sentenced to death Thursday. The 150-mile trip was made by automobile. The prisoners, in separate cars, were chained and under heavy guard.

They will die together in the gas chamber Dec. 18.

Immediately following their arrival at the prison they were "dressed in." The process, which required almost an hour, included the recording of weight, height and identifying marks. Photographs and fingerprints were taken. Each was given the usual disinfectant bath.

While they were being fingerprinted, officials said Mrs. Heady remarked to Hall, "this is almost like old homecoming."

Hall, who was released from the prison last April after serving a year and three months for robbery, did not answer.

Officers said he remarked: "Lots of people are in here because of liquor. They usually learn too late."

The pair was issued regulation prison clothing and placed in cells in death row. Officials said they will not be allowed outside their cells, except for baths, until their execution.

Attorneys for both have said they do not plan an appeal The death sentence was imposed by U.S. District Judge Albert L. Reeves after a three-day advisory trial.

Bulgarians Furnish Music And Gunfire For U.S.A. Visitors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KOULA, Greece (AP) — Bulgarian border guards turned on a double barrel barrage of music and gunfire for a group of visiting U.S. officers lunching at this tiny outpost a dozen feet from the heavily fortified Greek-Bulgarian frontier.

Moscow Radio had set the stage with a broadcast Thursday describing the survey of Greek defenses as "another warlike act aimed at Soviet Russia and her friends."

As the Americans and their Greek hosts ate Friday, music blared from a huge loudspeaker atop the nearby Bulgar border post. Simultaneously a Bulgarian howitzer battery struck up a practice barrage in the background.

Kellerman Heirs Hunted In Berlin

BAY CITY (AP)—Heirs to an $80,000 estate of a man who died in the Yukon wilderness were sought today in Germany. One was believed to be living in the Red zone of Berlin.

Mrs. Ottilie Kellerman of Bay City, one of two possible U. S. heirs to the estate of the miner, Albert Kellerman, said Friday two blood-relatives are known to have been living in Germany Mrs. Kellerman did not know if they still were alive.

One of the sought heirs, a Martha Kellerman Friede, a half-sister of Kellerman's was last known to be living in the Red zone of Berlin.

The other was a sister of the deceased miner, a Mrs. Leuri Kellerman Overdick, of Lichlingen, Germany.

In the search for heirs, Mrs. Kellerman, and Mrs. Ida Irish, of Battle Creek, are the only relatives to be located by authorities. Mrs. Irish is a first cousin of Kellerman.

The search started in December of 1952 when Kellerman died in his cabin in the Canadian Yukon. Single, Kellerman left no will. Canadian provincial police traced his relatives to Bay City where Mrs. Kellerman and her adopted daughter were found.

Houston Victory Nets $2,225,000

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A school, whose chief benefactor apologetically explained his gifts had amounted to only 25 million dollars, had another $2,225,000 from him today for a football victory.

The school is burgeoning University of Houston and the oilman philanthropist with football fever is Hugh Roy Cullen.

The oilman, pleased with the school's football win over Baylor last week announced his gift Friday at a campus pep rally for today's game with Texas Tech.

"The great spirit and determination shown by the Cougars last Saturday in defeating Baylor fills me with enthusiasm and prompts me to do something for our great university," Cullen said. Nobody doubted his enthusiasm when he said a few minutes later:

"I have decided to give the university $2,225,000 in oil payments."

The school's football team, going into last Saturday's game with a record of two wins, three losses and a tie, pasted a 37-7 defeat on Baylor, then ranked ninth nationally in the Associated Press poll.

Cullen, chairman of the university's board of regents, already had given the school about 25 million.

Harry Dexter White Case Gives Welcome Lift To Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today the Harry Dexter White case has given a "tremendous lift" to the GOP in advance of next year's congressional election campaigns.

But Democratic senators said they doubt any advantage the Republicans may have gained will be lasting. They predicted the administration's farm, tax and spending programs will be regarded by the voters as far more important.

Back On Offensive

Hall said in an interview he believes the charges of laxity toward Communists in government, made by Atty. Gen. Brownell against former President Truman, "have helped us."

"The impression I have gained by talking to people all over the country is that this matter has given a tremendous lift to our organization," he said.

Although Hall didn't say so, he apparently holds the view that Brownell's sensational charges—that Truman promoted White despite FBI reports of White's alleged espionage activities—put the Republicans back on the offensive after they had lost special congressional elections in Wisconsin and New Jersey.

Kickback In Canada

Brownell's charges, made Nov. 6, precipitated an immediate storm of Republican and Democratic outcries, and today there were signs of international reprecussions.

A State Department spokesman said Canadian Ambassador A.D.P. Heeney called on Undersecretary W. Bedell Smith Friday and "expressed surprise" at the public disclosure the FBI had information from Canadian government sources in 1946 about White.

Brownell made the disclosure Tuesday when, in testifying before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, he stripped the secrecy label from an FBI letter to the White House in February 1946. This was about the time that White, now dead, was promoted from assistant secretary of the Treasury to U.S. representative on the International Monetary Fund.

The letter by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover contained several references to information concerning White "which originated with sources high placed in the Canadian government."

Witness Names Michigan Reds

DETROIT (AP) — The conspiracy trial of six Michigan Communists concluded its fourth week Friday with the testimony of a 50-year-old Detroit grandmother who served as an undercover agent for the FBI.

Government attorneys, seeking to prove that the six defendants conspired to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the Government, placed Mrs. Bereniece Baldwin on the stand as their third witness.

Mrs. Baldwin, a Communist party member for nine years and an FBI employe at the same time, almost at once pointed out one of the defendants, Mrs. Helen Winter, as active in Communist party affairs.

Mrs. Baldwin said she joined the party in 1943. She said she assumed she lost her membership when she testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1952.

Mrs. Baldwin's testimony, like that of previous government witnesses, is being introduced to furnish "background" information on the Communist party for the Federal Court jury hearing the case.

The Detroit grandmother told of her rise to various party positions in Michigan. She pointed out another defendant, Nat Ganley, as having attended numerous Communist party conventions with Mrs. Winter.

Pole Walks Out Of U. N. In Huff

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations waited today to see whether Communist Poland's Dr. Julius Katz-Suchy would walk back into the U.N. committee chairmanship he walked out on Friday night in a huff.

The angry Pole stormed from the Assembly's legal committee in the face of an implied rebuke for his refusal to address Nationalist China's representative as the "delegate from China."

Katz-Suchy made his dramatic exit just before the committee approved a resolution calling on the chairman and other committee officials to address all delegates as representatives of their countries. The Polish envoy had been under attack for two days for addressing Chinese Nationalist Ambassador Shuihsi Hsu only as "Dr. Hsu".

Mother Greets Son, Given Up As Dead, Who Left The Reds

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP) — "My son! My son! Bless the Lord!"

Shouting these words and waving her arms in the air, Bessie Dickenson early today rushed into the arms of her son, the prisoner of war who embraced communism and then changed his mind.

It was the first time Cpl. Edward Dickenson had seen his mother in more than three years and for a breathless moment a score of reporters and photographers stood mutely by.

Then pandemonium broke loose. Photo bulbs snapped and questions came from everywhere. In the midst of all this, the Dickensons—mother, father, son and sister—kept on embracing and weeping.

"I thought he was dead," cried Mrs. Dickenson. "But the Lord has given me back my son."

Ed's father, 73-year-old Van Burean Dickenson, kissed the 23-year-old soldier on the chek.

"God bless you," said the elderly farmer from Cracker's Neck, Va.

The family had about 10 minutes together at Andrews Air Force Base. Then Ed was placed in a bus and sent off to the Army's Walter Reed Medical Center for a physical checkup—"just like any other POW," said an Army officer.

"It feels wonderful to be home," Ed said.

Then, in response to a question, he said: "Yes, I'm definitely going to reenlist. I haven't spent any time in the Army. I've been in prison practically the whole time."

"Oh, I hope he doesn't go back in," said his mother. "All we want is to have him back with us on the farm."

Rebuke Of Israel To Be Stiffened

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Arab bloc worked over plans today to get more teeth into a proposed Big Three resolution censuring Israel for the recent killing of 53 Jordan border villagers.

Backed by Lebanon and Pakistan in the U.N. Security Council, Jordan expressed complete dissatisfaction with the Western resolution. They assailed it as too weak and because it did not demand Israeli compensation for the loss of Arab life and property in the Oct. 14-15 raid on Kibya village.

The United States, Britain and France have asked the 11-nation council to vote the "strongest censure" of Israel for the attack, which the Jewish state maintains was in retaliation for a long series of Arab provocations.

The Big Three resolution asks for Israeli guarantees against future assaults and calls for reinforcement of the U.N. truce observer team watching over the tense Arab-Jewish borders.

Israel also has voiced bitter opposition to the Western resolution as "one-sided and discriminatory" and a "big step backward from peace."

Trieste Jobless Stir Up Trouble

TRIESTE (AP)—Jobless Triestini shouting "hunger, hunger" marched on City Hall today in the third straight day of demonstrations for an increase in relief rolls in the disputed city.

An estimated 500 demonstrators beseiged the building demanding to see Mayor Gianni Bartoli, an Italian. A guard of 100 civil police barred their entrance but a delegation was allowed to interview Bartoli.

The marchers claimed to represent 17,000 unemployed persons in the city, where more than 1,000 civilian employes of the Allied Military Government have lost their jobs since Britain and the United States decided Oct. 8 to pull their troops out of the territory's Zone A and turn it over to Italy.

Italian sources, however, claimed the demonstrations were politically motivated. They charged the leaders were either pro-Moscow Communists or persons favoring Yugoslav claims on the Trieste territory.

Having Quadruplets Easier Than Singles, Says Florida Mother

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Having quadruplets was easier than having a single child, says Mrs. Abla Hijab.

Interviewed at Alachua General Hospital Friday, the 33-year-old University of Florida student said the delivery of four babies Wednesday was eaiser than when she had her first child three years ago.

And the after-effects were about the same, she replied in answer to a question.

The four babies—one boy and three girls—ranged in weight from 2 pounds 4 ounces to 3 pounds 8 ounces. Dr. Thomas Camp said a premature infant weighing two pounds will take six weeks or longer to reach five pounds - if everything goes well.

Japanese Engineers Whistle For Raise

TOKYO (AP) —Japanese railroad engineers want a raise in pay so bad they just have to let off a little steam.

They decided to do it all together at noon next Wednesday. They will blow the whistle of 5,000 locomotives for one full minute.

The engineers chapter of the National Railway Workers Union said this will cost the government, which operates the railroads, 130 yen (about 30 cents) per engine, or the equivalent of $1,500.

Queen Beth Leaving Fogs Of Britain For Trip Around World

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth will leave the fogs of Britain Monday night for sunny southern islands and a trip around the world.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will be away six months on a hand-shaking trip designed to give thousands of her subjects a glimpse of their 27-year-old Queen. It will be the first time a British sovereign has made a world tour.

Series of Ceremonials

Inevitably parts of the trip will take on all the pageantry of royal occasions. There will be receptions, investures, loyal addresses, civic welcomes, state banquets. But the royal couple, who love to travel, will also have time for sightseeing.

They leave London Monday night in the American-built stratocruiser Canopus, piloted by Capt. Anthony Loraine. They will fly through the night via Gander, Nfld., to Bermuda, where they are due Tuesday. The next day they fly on to Jamaica. There the Queen will open a road cut through swamps to connect Kingston and Montego Bay.

At Kingston the couple will board the 15,902-ton passenger liner Gothic, converted for royal use. Instead of 83 passengers she normally carries, the Gothic will have the Queen's entourage.

Visit Fiji Island.

This includes several private secretaries, two ladies-in-waiting, equerries, a medical officer and a 30-piece Royal Marine band. By radio telephone the Queen may keep in touch with government affairs and also have chats with her children, left behind with Queen mother Elizabeth.

After Jamaica comes a 17-day sail via the Panama Canal to the island of Fiji. There the party will receive ancient ceremonies of welcome from the bushy-haired islanders and be presented with whales' teeth, the most prized articles of ceremonial usage.

Then come the Ionga Islands, New Zealand, Australia, Africa, the Mediterranean — and London, again.

Detroit Council Stresses Safety

DETROIT (AP)—The City Council has asked the corporation Counsel and prosecutor's office to stiffen fines for violations of safety and sanitary codes.

The council acted Friday after hearing reports on a fire Thursday which destroyed a midtown rooming house and took the life of a 3-year-old boy.

Councilman Edward Connon also asked the corporation counsel to investigate the feasibility of placing charges against the operator of the rooming house, Mrs. Mildred Berne.

The building, originally designed as a two-family residence, housed 36 persons at the time of the fire.

Fire inspector Lawrence Amphrim said the blaze resulted when the victim, William Robinson, set fire to newspapers while playing with a cigarette lighter in the attic quarters his family rented.

Soviets Claim They Were First To Use New War Weapons

LONDON (AP)— The Russians claim today to being first in the field with a whole range of modern war weapons, including rockets, quick-firing cannon and mine throwers.

Moscow Radio also quoted Col. Fomin, identified as a Soviet artillery commander, as saying that the Russians also invented rifled gun barrels 200 years before anyone else and were the first to use breech-loading cannon.

DETROIT (AP)—Probate Judge James H. Sexton Friday awarded the former yacht captain of the late Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck $17,500 share of the Groesback estate. Judge Sexton awarded the money to Ernest Stanton. Stanton originally sought $144,136, insisting that Groesbeck had made an oral promise to repay him for his services.

Ad Brings Burglar

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Advertising usually pays, but Miss Bell Brook found that her ad boomeranged on her.

She advertised her mink coat and mink stole. A man answered Friday and when she admitted him into her home he bound her hands and feet, cut the phone wires and fled with the two mink pieces, valued at $2,500.

Accident Kills 3

JACKSON (AP)—Funeral services were held in Jackson Saturday for three members of the family of a Jackson dentist killed in an automobile accident Wednesday. The victims, Dr. Ivan E. Wilcox, his wife, Elsie, and their infant daughter, Kathy, were killed when their car went off Hague Road south of Jackson.

Informer Back With His Family

ASHBY, Mass. (AP)—William H. Teto, 53, enjoyed a father's first normal day at home in 12 years today—free of the cloak of secrecy he said he wore as an FBI undercover informer in the ranks of the Communist party.

This little central Massachusetts town welcomed him back Thursday night after hearing and seeing him Thursday on television. He had pointed out two men he said were Communists while working in General Electric plants. He said he had been with the FBI since 1941 and that he learned of Communist activity first hand as an officer of a Communist cell in nearby Fitchburg.

Today he shared the sentiments of his wife, Sadie, 44, to "settle down to a normal family life." And state police stood guard to see they were not disturbed.

Mrs. Teto alone in Ashby knew what he had been doing. He told her sometime ago when the friction brought about his constant absence from home threatened to break up their marriage.

But "Gramps" didn't know—he is Henry Teto, 73, his father—nor Teto's four children.

They all gathered around him today in happy reunion.

"Gramps" didn't know the story until he saw it on television.

Mrs. Teto related how her husband's secret career made life hard in a small town. She said:

"It made things difficult for me and my husband because he was snubbed on many occasions and never was invited out or to take part in town activities."

And Teto agreed. "None of the people in Ashby spoke to me for 10 years except to say 'hello,'" he said with a far-away look. "I was snubbed by members of my church. They never invited me anywhere."

He Urges Teachers To Be Glamorous

OMAHA (AP) — What teachers need is more glamor, says Dr. Galen Saylor, professor of education at the University of Nebraska, and president of the Nebraska Parent-Teacher Association:

"We've got to make the teaching profession attractive to young people. We ought to point up the glamorous side of teaching."

Dr. Saylor thinks he may even suggest the Nebraska PTA board "have some kind of glamour contest."

IDEA BACKFIRES — Here is graphic evidence that a 'thing of beauty" is not necessarily a "joy forever." Allegan Nurseryman Paul Armintrout awoke one morning recently to find a large area of delicate ice plants "in bloom" on his Route one nursery. The night before he had decided to leave his sprinkling system running to ward off an expected light frost and give the young seedlings a good soaking before he left for a northern deer hunting trip. The idea backfired when the mercury went down further than expected and the water froze on the seedlings. He was hoping the ice coating would not cause permanent damage to the young trees. Weather Stays Damp And Cool

By The Associated Press

Wet and cool weather appeared in prospect for the Mid-continent and Western states today as mild weather in the East created the worst "smaze" in years on the Atlantic Coast from New England to Virginia.

The Midwest storm centered in southwestern Minnesota early today and light snow fell in the eastern Dakotas, northern Minnesota and northwestern Iowa. There also was light snow in sections of the Rockies. Strong winds were reported in southwestern New Mexico.

Associated with the storm center was the light rain which fell in the Upper Mississippi Valley.

Cooler Canadian air advanced eastward into the western Great Lakes Region, the western Ohio River Valley and southward to the Mississippi Delta. But the Weather Bureau reported no severe cold in the Midwest although readings were below freezing in some areas today. Coldest spots were in the Rockies, with a reading of 15 below at Big Piney, Wyo. Zero readings were reported in other parts of Wyoming.

Horseshoe Crabs May Exterminate Clams

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP)—Shooting all clam diggers to save the clam "won't do the job in Massachusetts waters," two experts report.

Biologists Harry Turner and J. Arthur Nosgay, who are working to save the clams off Cape Cod agree that the horseshoe crab and the boring snail are more deadly than the clam digger.

They say the crab and the snail eat 10 times their weight in clams a year—and both move so fast they can't be eliminated. But Turner and Nosgay are trying to find a way.

The cockleburr carries its seeds to distant spots by catching on fur-bearing animals or to clothing of passers-by.

U. M. Art Program Benefits Michigan School Children

ANN ARBOR—Michigan's rural school children are learning more about the best in art than are many others in the country because of a unique program being carried on by the University of Michigan.

Some 115 color prints of the old masters and the best in contemporary European and American art continually are being distributed around the state by the University, and actually are hung in the classrooms, where the students may see them for a month at a time.

The University's program was originated in 1948 to promote an interest in art and to let such children, who have little chance to visit big city museums, know that such things actually exist, according to Michael Church, supervisor of special projects for the U-M Extension Service.

All of the pictures now are in use. They are in various schools in Presque Isle, Kent and Lapeer counties, as well as in several schools in Rogers City and Port Huron.

The prints were selected by the University's Museum of Art, and are distributed through the facilities of the U-M Audio - Visual Education Center. Presque Isle and Kent county bookmobiles also are assisting in circulating the pictures.

With The Deer Hunters

Although he has failed to get his buck so far this season, Rene LaFleur of 1320 Montana, Gladstone, killed a 300-pound bear Wednesday afternoon while hunting in the Ensign area.

Chris Milbert of Traverse City is 86 years old, but that does not prevent him from going deer hunting in Northern Michigan each season. He is hunting in the Paul's Camp area, Alger County. Although he has not yet "connected" with his buck this year, Milbert will continue hunting through the season.

A first-year hunter is Lee Kairtge, 17, of Indianapolis, who is hunting from the Fred Van Hala place at Limestone. Fred had first-year luck and downed a four-point buck weighing 125 pounds at 8 a. m. Wednesday.

Inches of Rain Made To Order

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — The three Homer brothers, Lee, Ed, and John, by pulling a switch handle, can put three inches of "rain" on a piece of land a half half mile long and 80 feet wide in six hours.

They have one of the largest spray irrigation systems in Montana.

Driver Misses Deer, Damages His Car

Joseph Mashar of Royal Oak, hunting in this area, was driving on Co. Rd. L-3 in Nahma Township Thursday night about 7 when a deer jumped in front of his car.

Mashar swerved, missing the deer, but ran into a sandbank. He estimated damage to his car at $200.

He reported the incident Friday evening to Michigan State Police of the Gladstone Post.

Deer Hunters At Midseason Mark

Deer hunters this weekend enter the midseason mark with prospects somewhat improved, so far as the weather outlook is concerned.

The first week of the season indicated the kill was fair to good compared to last year, with more deer brought to the lockers and carried south across the Straits of Mackinac, the Conservation Department reports.

This was due to a considerable extent because of the warm weather prevailing last week, officers added. This caused hunters to either get their venison into cold storage as soon as possible or to take them back home before the meat spoiled.

Back roads in the hunting areas are today becoming muddy because of the recent rains. Freezing weather might improve both the roads and hunting conditions.

What is most desired by hunters at this time is a "good tracking snow."

IRON MOUNTAIN—Four former Detroit Tiger baseball pitchers will appeared on a special Elks club entertainment program at the Iron Mountain Veterans' hospital.

The special guests on the program for the patients were Dizzy Trout, Art Houtteman, Hal Newhouser and Roxie Lawson, who are deer hunting in the Ralph district. Dr. Grant Hamm is chairman of the Elks program committee for the VA hospital.

MARQUETTE—Under the game land acquisition program, the Conservation Commission at its November meeting acquired for $1,000 some 250 feet of frontage for public access on Engman's Lake in Marquette County. The commission also approved purchase of 40 acres for $500 in the Point Aux Chenes wildlife flooding project in Mackinac County near St. Ignace.

STEPHENSON—Stephenson today is one of the few communities in the Nicolet Boy Scout Area to have an Explorer Post, Boy Scout troop and Cub Scout Pack, says Doug Kindschy, assistant scout executive. The new Cub pack was organized this week under the leadership of Fred Pintal of the Stephenson High School faculty, who will be cubmaster.

MARQUETTE—Members of the conservation committee of the Marquette County Board of Supervisors had under consideration today a resolution by the Iron County Board, urging the Legislature to permit counties to decide whether or not to permit open seasons on bear. The Iron County proposal declares that bear "are not in danger of depletion or extermination and do not require any protection or necessary assistance for their increase" and that "there is an abundance of bear and a lot of destruction by bear" in the Upper Peninsula.

The machine contained stamps and about $8 in cash. The machine itself is valued at approximately $32, police were informed.

Taxi Driver Fined For Chasing Police

OKLAHOMA CITY, (AP)—A 46-year-old taxicab driver, Arlie Elmer Wilcoxson, was fined $10 in City Traffic Court Friday for chasing a police scoutcar.

Officers J. W. Rankin and R. D. Brokaw claimed Wilcoxson followed them at high speed while they were chasing another speeder.

Wilcoxson's lawyer, Pat Brogan, appealed the conviction. He claimed it was impossible for police to keep an eye on speeders in front and in back of them at the same time.

Airliner Turns Back On False Alarm Fire

GANDER, Nfld. (AP)—A Europe-bound Trans World Airlines Constellation with 57 passengers aboard returned to Gander early today after what appeared to be a false fire alarm 500 miles out over the Atlantic.

The big airliner was flight 966, out of Philadelphia and New York and bound for London and Frankfurt.

Dolly Gets Warm

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—It was pretty cold in Ogden Friday night, so 2-year-old Janet K. Waters did her best to keep her dolly warm.

She stuck it in the oven.

Moments later, mother, Mrs. Calvin Waters, turned on the stove to preheat the oven. The fire department responded.

Damage was confined to the doll and feelings of the solicitous "mother."

Didn't Need Police

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — When Rickey Whitsett, 6, of Albuquerque got lost Friday, city police moved extra fast to hunt for him. His father is Patrolman Jack Whitsett, who was on duty on the police radio desk.

But Rickey showed up a couple of hours later by himself and explained he'd been to a party at a friend's house.

No Curb Service

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A mother complained to the Common Pleas Court her estranged husband's parents would not allow her to visit her child.

On investigation the court found the mother would drive up to the in-laws' house, sit in the car, toot the horn and wait until someone carried out the 2-year-old boy.

"Walk in the house and visit the child," ruled Judge Fred B. Cramer Friday. "There is no curb service provided by this court."

Problems Of Safety Discussed By Students

Four high school students, Jim Moore of Crystal Falls, Mary Manning of St. Joseph, Escanaba, Tom LaLonde of Gladstone and Connie Davidson of Crystal Falls, were elected as delegates to attend the Governor's Conference, which will be held at Lansing Feb. 26.

Highlights of the Teen-age Highway Safety Conference were the talks presented by Austin Grant, commentator on radio station CKLW, Windsor, and Hon. Joseph Donnelly, probate judge of Houghton County.

Grant, who spoke at the noon luncheon, emphasized the importance of today's teenagers as the coming generation. He also brought up the subject of the teenagers' responsibility in safety on the highway. At the general morning session, Judge Donnelly reminded the members attending the conference that their purpose was to present fresh and unprejudiced ideas to the Michigan legislature for the cause of perfecting Michigan laws.

Many resolutions were passed resulting from five separate discussions during the day. Several of the most important resolutions passed were:

That the law be amended to require that notice be given to parents of any minor accessed a motor vehicle violation at least 24 hours in advance of further proceedings before any court.

That we (members attending the conference) are in favor of traffic violators being compelled to attend traffic school after being given a summons for traffic offense, depending on attitude, type of offense and previous record and/or possibly the temporary suspension of an operator's license.

That we (conference delegates) are in favor of uniform traffic fines throughout the states.

That a safety club be started in schools and that every school if possible have drivers training in grades nine through 12 to make it possible for students to obtain lower insurance rates.

Edward E. Edick, Escanaba Senior High School principal, stated that his observance of the conference was that the students took a very serious outlook on the traffic problem and seemed to be way ahead of the adults in their viewpoints.

Twenty four high schools from Delta, Dickinson, Iron, Menominee and Schoolcraft Counties participated in yesterday's conference. Four delegates from each school attended.

Case Of Alger Hiss To Be Reviewed Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alger Hiss, whose first request for parole was unanimously rejected last year, gets another chance in an annual review of his case today by the Federal Parole Board.

Hiss, a former State Department employe, was convicted Jan. 25, 1950, on charges of lying when he denied under oath that he passed government secrets to a Soviet spy ring before World War II.

He began serving a five-year sentence March 22, 1951, at the Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Penitentiary.

Hidden Money Stolen; Safe Isn't Touched

SALT LAKE CITY, (AP) —"Better safe than sorry" took an ironic twist for a Salt Lake merchant Friday.

The co-owner of an ice cream company read so much about safe robberies he decided to foil any designs culprits might have on his safe.

So he hid more than $200 in a bundle of linen, ignoring the floor safe in the store. Friday he went to his hiding place. The money was gone.

The safe wasn't touched.

Stephenson To Protest Present C&NW Service

STEPHENSON— Protest has been filed with the Chicago & North Western Railway by the Stephenson Lions Club and other community organizations against a new schedule invoked at the Stephenson railroad station which, the objectors say, has drastically reduced service to the public.

Under the new arrangement, Anton Voelker, station agent, will be the only employe at the station with hours from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 9 to 11 p.m.daily, except Sundays and holidays when no service will be available.

In the first change, no service was available on Saturdays or Sundays until evening and the waiting rooms were kept locked, meaning passengers for the "400" streamliners had to wait outside, regardless of the weather and no tickets could be purchased.

Later, the C. & N. W. invoked its new arrangement with Voelker, the only employe. The second trick operator, Fred Bagley, who held the post for many years, was transferred to Marinette effective Thursday.

Forced Landing Causes Furore

MENOMINEE—A flier who is stationed with the U.S. Air Force at Chanute Field, Ill., was risking his neck when he took off last Sunday afternoon from the Menominee airport with virtually an empty gasoline tank in his private plane, Menominee County Airport officials agreed today.

The flier, Pfc. Ferdinand Walli, barely made it to a farm near Baby's Corners, south of Peshtigo, where he made a forced landing in a farmer's field.

Walli was not injured but the carburetor in his plane's engine was damaged and he had to leave the plane in the field for repairs and continue to Illinois by car.

Walli had been hunting in the U.P. last week and took off from Escanaba about 2:30 p. m. Sunday. He told a Peshtigo Times reporter, after his forced landing, that he knew his gasoline supply was low when he left Escanaba and that as he approached Menominee he radioed the airport here, but was told gas was not available.

Part of his story isn't factual, according to Peter Zimmer, of North Central Airlines, who was on duty at the airport Sunday. He said Walli landed his plane and came to him and inquired about gasoline at the time an airliner was in and Zimmer was busy loading the plane. He said he told Walli gasoline service was not available on Sundays, but said gasoline could be obtained at the Oconto airport. Walli then took off and was forced to land near Baby's Corners, less than half way to Oconto.

Limited Service

(Since termination of the airport lease of M. & M. Aviation Company, the County Road Department has taken over supervision of the airport under direction of Supt. Con Ahearn, Jr. The operation includes the gasoline concession which M.&M. formerly held. Under the new arrangement, gasoline is available on call to the Road Department, which sends a man to the field to service the plane. Telephone numbers are prominently displayed in the airport waiting room telling pilots where to call if they wish gasoline servicing. However, the service is not available on Saturday afternoons or Sundays. Advice on this arrangement is carried in the Airmen's Guide, which most fliers consult when flying in unfamiliar areas.)

North Central Agent William Hicks said his staff would assist any flier to get gasoline in an emergency, but that Walli evidently believed he could make it to Oconto. Walli's report of having radioed as he approached Menominee to inquire about gasoline, Hicks termed "ridiculous." The only radio system at the airport is one operated on very high frequency by North Central for ground-plane contact of NC airliners. The NC radio system is on a wave-length that could not be contacted by a radio in a private plane, Hicks said.

According to the Peshtigo Times report, the engine in Walli's plane started to sputter when he was over Baby's Corners and he shut off his power and glided into a field at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Zeno Koronkiewicz, narrowly missing a score of youngsters playing in the yard of the Koronkiewiczs, who were celebrating their 45th wedding anniversary.

When he was gliding in to land, Walli's plane struck and snapped a 440-volt high power electric line, cutting off power in the area until 10 p. m. Sunday when it was repaired. The plane's propellor snipped the electric wire which probably save the craft from tipping over and crashing, as might have happened if the lower part of the plane struck the wire.

The accident alarmed guests in the Koronkiewicz home, who were playing cards. They heard the noise looked out the living room window and saw the plane headed straight at them. The plane stopped 12 feet from the house.

More Use Of Airmail Needed To Maintain Air Service Here

THE report of North Central Airlines for the month of October indicates that Escanaba produced only 604 pounds of airmail in the month, the lowest of any Upper Peninsula city on North Central's schedule.

It was a month in which the airline carried 10,401 tons miles of airmail, the largest in the company's history.

Escanaba's 604 pounds of airmail compares unfavorably with Marquette's 1346 pounds, Houghton's 1095 pounds and Menominee's 1011 pounds. Iron Mountain produced 681 pounds during the same period.

It may well be that Escanaba residents fail to realize the benefits of airmail service. For an additional three cents (six cents for airmail, three cents for regular mail), a letter mailed in Escanaba today can reach a destination in any section of the country tomorrow. It is true that the letter may not be delivered to the addressee tomorrow, assuming it does not contain a special delivery stamp, but it is also true that in a large number of cases the letter actually will reach the addressee tomorrow. In any case, it will arrive at its ultimate destination a lot sooner than by regular mail.

The commercial air service now available to Escanaba, with direct routes to Milwaukee and Chicago and to Lansing and Detroit, is important service to Escanaba. It is financed to a considerably extent by airmail subsidies. To retain this service, it is essential that Escanaba will have to show proper use of the servce. That includes airmail as well as passenger use.

A glance at a map showing the route of North Central in the Upper Peninsula reveals a dog-leg section from Marquette to Iron Mountain to Escanaba. It is not inconceivable that some day North Central or perhaps the government itself will desire to shorten the air route in the Upper Peninsula. If that should happen, Escanaba's position on the route may be jeopardized by its inadequate record in the use of airmail.

When you use airmail, particularly for letters travelling long distances, you get expedited service. Your letter reaches its destination sooner than by any other method of transportation. You also are helping to maintain commercial air service in Escanaba. That is extremely important to all of us.

It Proves One Thing

FOR several days now, former Iranan Premier Mossadegh has been on trial in Tehran before a court-martial. He is charged with illegally resisting the Shah's order to step down as premier last summer.

As an earnest student of foreign jurisprudence, we have tried desperately to understand this whole affair, and particularly the details of the defense Mossadegh is making. So far, unluckily, all we have been able to come up with is this:

Mossadegh does not believe the military court has jurisdiction over his case at all. But he wants the trial to keep going because the courtroom is warmer than his jail cell.

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

How quickly can you spot errors in spelling? Do you consider yourself a good speller or a poor speller? Do you share the belief widely held among otherwise intelligent people that "good spellers are born, not made"?

Well, here is a chance to check your own spelling ability. In the following nonsense paragraph ten fairly common words are deliberately misspelled. See if you can spot them all. If you succeed on the first time through, you have nothing to worry about so far as spelling is concerned. If you catch eight or nine errors, your ability is about average. If you note fewer than eight errors, you had better take steps to improve your spelling. For advice on what to do, see the end of the column.

SPELLING TEST: "The concensus expressed among the arbitrators came as a considerable surprise, seeming phenominal to observers who had expected disension and were taken aback at the exhillarating declarations of peace and ammity. As if to coroborate the earlier prognostications of the comittee, a statement decrying innuenndo and abuse was issued. More stabillizing influences and a greater degree of parenttal supervision were demanded."

ANSWERS: The words misspelled, in odrer, are (1) consensus, (2) phenomenal, (3) dissension, (4) exhilarating, (5) amity, (6) corroborate, (7) committee, (8) innuendo, (9) stabilizing, (10) parental.

If your spelling shows need for improvement try first to develop a curiosity about your language. Whenever you see an unfamiliar word, don't just pass it by. Look it up in a dictionary. Jot it down and try to use it in your letter writing. Gradually you will find your increased concern with language will pay such worthwhile dividends as greater ease in conversation, more expressive vocabulary and greatly improved spelling. It will also be helpful if you consult the various lists of words frequently misspelled. I shall be glad to send interested readers a list of books in which such lists can be found. Just send a self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this newspaper.

NO PERFECTLY FAIR WAY TO FILL SENATE VACANCIES

(Duluth News Tribune)

Senators sometimes die in office at a time when their state has a govetnor of another party. The governor, normally, appoints an interim senator. It is not surprising that the appointee usually—perhaps "always" would not be too strong—is a member of the governor's party.

Discussing such a case Rep. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) says that Ohioans who voted for Senator Taft must feel a sense of deep frustration at the turn of events which now finds them "represented" in the senate by a man who campaigned for Taft's opponent. Bender refers to Senator Burke (D-Ohio), appointed recently by Governor Lausche, who is a Democrat.

Senators are mortals. Today's voters are great ones for splitting tickets or for switching allegiance between one election and the next. Unless states find another way of filling these vacancies such "frustration" as Representative Bender reports is going to be common.

Even special elections aren't much of an answer. They cost a great deal of money and, coming at odd times, may not fit into the plans of logical candidates for the office. Death is the real frustrator, as all can see when it cuts off the career of a man as badly needed as was Senator Taft.

AUTO ECONOMICS

(Los Angeles Times)

If Reuther wants permanent jobs for some of his members and no jobs at all for others, continued insistence on an annual wage guarantee might be the way to get it. In such a case the automobile industry would end as it started: The producer of a luxury product catering to a very limited market.

A Man Who Has Compassion

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

The man with compassion was the one whom we call "the Good Samaritan," the man whom the parable of Jesus, in Luke 10:25-37, has made famous, and the outstanding type of all who have devoted themselves to human need and the service of their fellowmen.

That a Samaritan, despised in his time as belonging to a people of a corrupted religious belief (See John 4:22), should become that type is in itself a striking thing.

But the Parable is also in every way striking for its contrasts and its plain insistence that religion in its outward form and profession is of little account or significance, if the reality of genuine goodness, humanity and mercy be lacking.

That a priest and a Levite, official representatives of the religion in which Jesus Himself had grown up, a religion deeply instilled with the precepts of humanity and mercy, should have been so unfaithful to all that was best in their profession as to pass by with callous indifference a fellaw mortal, stricken and in deep need, while a man of supposedly inferior race and religious ideas displayed all the reality of what was best is the religion that the priest and Levite protested—this is the contrast and the very heart of the Parable's teaching.

That a Samaritan with goodness in his heart and with compassionate care for a fellowman in need was better than the Jew, who would have no dealings with him but who lacked both his goodness and any faithfulness to all that was best in the religion of Judaism, is plain; but the Parable does not is any way sugget that a Samaritan was better than a Jew.

In the Parable of the Pharisee and the Publican the point was not in any sense that Publicans were better than Pharisees, but that a Publican, humbly confessing his need and seeking God's mercy, was incomparably better than a proud, self-righteous Pharisee, thanking God for what he was, instead of seeking God's mercy for his faults and God's guidance in becoming a better man.

As a matter of fact, the Pharisees had been the intensely sincere believers and defenders of the purity of the Jewish faith, suffering dire and terrible persecutions when they had opposed the effort of Greek conquerors to corrupt the worship of the temple with pagan elements. I have read how in that persecution 800 were crucified is one day.

It often happens that some nonchurchmember displays qualities of character and goodness in action that puts to shame many churchmembers and professing Christians. But that is not the general rule.

There is no particular evidence that there were many good Samaritans, and there is plenty of evidence that there were many Jews whose lives were marked with the qualities of that particular Samaritan. It was a Jew, Jesus Himself, who told the Parable.

But the standard of Christian good living is set in such character and conduct as the Good Samaritan displayed. One cannot be a good Christian without being a good neighbor; and there is no such thing as faith in God, and love of God, that is not associated and reflected in love toward one's fellowmen.

"If a man love not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Some readers have suggested that I put the late Chief Justice of the United States in the position of being pro-Communist or a Red when I reported earlier this week that Fred Vinson, when Secretary of the Treasury, transferred Harry D. White to the International Monetary Fund and advised President Truman to keep him in that job, under surveillance.

Since Fred Vinson is dead and cannot defend himself and since the last thing I wish to do is reflect on a great man and a very dear friend, I should like to set forth further the views of the late Chief Justice on Communism. I had occasion to discuss this general subject with him on a camping trip in the Adirondacks not long before he died.

It is a fact that in the summer of 1945, shortly after he became Secretary of the Treasury, I warned Vinson that Harry White was not a good man to have in the Treasury. I did this because I thought it was a service to Vinson and to the country, but I told Vinson that I could not fully substantiate the evidence against White.

It is a fact also that Fred Vinson recommended the transfer of White from the Treasury to the Monetary Fund. Mr. Truman obviously knew little about personnel matters inside the Treasury; furthermore had great confidence in Vinson, and the last thing he would do would be to tell him how to run the Treasury. Vinson had been a leader of congress, a judge on the U. S. Court of Appeals: economic stabilizer; defense mobilizer; and head of the RFC After 30 years in government, he knew far more about government administration than Truman, and the brand new President leaned heavily on him.

CARELESS HARRY VAUGHAN

Furthermore the President was justified in leaning on him.

On the other hand, the President was not justified in leaning on Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, a genial dilettante who exercised as John Maragon and got Truman into all terrible judgment in picking such friends sorts of trouble.

Despite repeated exposes in this column showing up Vaughan for what he was, Mr. Truman continued to trust him with handling highly sensitive FBI reports. It was Vaughan who either failed to deliver or else failed to emphasize the importance of the first two Novembr and December, 1945, FBI reports on White.

Fred Vinson, however, considered an "old reliable" in government, took the position that White had a right to face the FBI informant who charged him with being part of a spy ring. Hoover in turn refused to reveal the informant, causing Vinson to recommend that White was innocent until proved guilty.

This may seem old fashioned in view of current public opinion, but at that time public opinion was different.

IKE AND STALIN

At that time, the public had seen General Eisenhower receive from Stalin the highest decoration given by the Soviet. They had seen pictures of Eisenhower and Marshal Zhukov sitting together in Berlin night clubs. They knew that Eisnehower had stood at Lenin's tomb with Stalin in paying joint tribute to Soviet troops. And they read Ike's statements about a partnership between the two nations.

This was about the time Vinson was recommending that Harry White be transferred to the Monetary Fund— period only six months after the end of the war with Japan. It was also about the time General Eisenhower was writing in his book: "Overshadowing all goals for us Americans was the contribution we locally might make toward establishing a working partnership between the United States and Russia."

So perhaps in this atmosphere it's understandable that Fred Vinson, then Secretary of the Treasury, might well conclude that the suspected Harry White could merely have been over zealous in promoting the Russian-American partnership Eisenhower talked about, and wanted more time to watch White and review the facts.

At any rate, I do not hesitate to review these facts in defense of one who is now dead and cannot defend himself.

Two other events are interesting in reviewing the Vinson-White situation. One took place at Bretton Woods, N. H., in the summer of 1944 when White and Henry Morgenthau ngeotiated the international monetary agreement. It was to administer this that White later was appointed.

White was the chief author of that agreement, and Vinson, who was present at Bretton Woods, watched him negotiate it.

Ironically, the Russians refused to sign the agreement; said it would be controlled by the United States, was an instrument of capitalist aggrandizement. Vinson knew how White had bucked the Russians at that conference. Probably that was one reason why he was more tolerant of White than I was.

New 'Lost Generation' Fights With French In Indo-China

By FRED SPARKS

NEA Staff Correspondent

WITH THE FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION in North Indo-China—(NEA)—At night the infantry in enemy country doesn't look for a hotel. They look for a place to dig in. A place where they may still be alive in the morning.

Our company commander picked a hill shaped like a camel's hump. We weren't in the front line. We were ahead of it. The nearest French position was five miles back.

The enemy, in some numbers, was all around. We had zig-zagged forward those five miles, taking all day, sniffing for Communist installations.

We were part of the French offensive into the highlands south of the Red River Delta, the greatest operation in two years.

* * *

The enemy avoided battle. He satisfied himself with defending, briefly, a small town and pegging shots from jungle and hill.

We had taken 20 prisoners and suspects. They were put to labor, including hauling my pack.

Everyone bent to, using the infantryman's short-handled shovel. Scraping the rocky hill was like denting an ice cube with a spoon.

The rear was radioed for barbed wire. Wire prevents surprise.

* * *

Two nights before this company of French Foreign Legionnaires had lodged in similar heights without wire. Communists, sneaking through a brushy fringe, were on them with bayonets poking, grenades blasting, before proper alert.

Fortunately, the attackers were short-handed. Fourteen Legionnaires died, an equal number shot and slashed. The Legion is perhaps the best infantry in the world, and the spilled blood was not all Legion—by three to one.

After a wire crown girdled the nob, mortars were adjusted, foxholes completed, and little fires blinked. Soup and coffee warmed in steel helmets. There was tinned meat and bread and a few sips each of Pernod and a good glassfull of red wine.

* * *

Death in war is a gamble of statistics. We gambled. If the Comunists cared to pay they could sweep us from this hill, like you sweep an insect off the tablecloth.

(Exclusive NEA Photos by Fred Sparks)

THESE ARE THE FACES of a "lost generation" fighting with the French Foreign Legion in Indo-China, dirty and tired, but still able to grin as they sample dinner cooked in a tin helmet (top) or dig in for the night (bottom) atop a Red hill . . .

There are no human secrets during such a gamble. Men want to talk. I heard one Legionnaire's story—the story of a lost generation—typical of most of the Legionnaires:

He was 16, a mobilized Hitler Youth, at the Nazi collapse. His boots and trousers too large, he slopped around like a cartoon kid. In British prison he lingered months behind barbed wire. Barbed wire is the trade mark of this century.

* * *

With others of his lost generation he picked at the garbage of bare survival. Escape came in the form of a Legion recruiting poster.

Now he was again behind barbed wire, a mercenary soldier who is fighting for three meals and companionship, his life expressed by the favorite Legion song: "My regiment is my only home . . . a family I have never known . . ."

We chatted under a fat moon. While it glared we relaxed. Around four, the moon was curtained. Then it came. A Legionnaire nearest the wire saw movement. His tommy gun fired at the shadows. And movement was seen on the other sides.

In crises the Legion moves with the precision of a ballet. As a Communist machine gun fired our mortars ringed possible approaches.

* * *

The prisoners talked loud in fear from their tightly guarded rows. One started to shout in a singsong monologue. He earned a quieting blow.

Night war is total confusion. The next 25 minutes were so. Maybe the Communists planned a blitz. Maybe they were merely harassing. I saw nothing.

There were many shots, many explosions. A few Legionnaires were slightly wounded.

Then it was still, and it remained still. In the morning there were torn bits of people on the wire. Many bodies had been removed.

Some are bearded, jaunty . . .

. . . or just bearded and weary.

Good Evening . . .

WEATHER BREEDER—Indian Summer, if such it might be called, has come to an end. Also finished is the threat of forest fires for this season.

Paul St. Amant of the U. S. Forest Service sighed a sigh of gratitude as the rain began to fall. This meant the end of a most unpredictable fire season.

Rains were well spaced during the past spring and summer to dampen the woods and fields and prevent the start of fires. Then when the deer hunting season opened (which is usually accompanied by rain or snow), the weather was so dry and sunny that the fires broke out in several counties—and more acreage was blackened than in all of the year that had gone before.

"Even the streams are beginning to run dry," said St. Amant before the fall rains started.

Note: Great Lakes levels have declined steadily since last spring. Miles of shoreline are now exposed, compared to nearly a foot of water covering them last year. The high water threat to docks, boathouses, cottages along the shore is now past.

* * *

THEY CAN BE WRONG—Perhaps you recall the big fuss made when Lake levels were too high a year or so ago, when the owners of shore property appealed to the government for damages, and when U. S. Army engineers began surveys for water level "control."

Perhaps because the subject has been out of the news we have heard no recent pronouncments on either water damage claims against the government, or the Army's plans to control Great Lakes levels.

This is just as well. The water is going down. It will decline for several years and then it will rise again. No doubt when the low ebb is reached some property owners will want the government to pay claims for low water damage—and the engineers will resume studies to determine how to raise the levels.

The topic is explored now only to show how wrong man can be in his attempts to determine what nature has in store for the future.

* * *

THE GUESSING GAME—Legend and folklore have long held that man, by examining the signs of nature, can learn in advance what the weather will be for the next season or the next year.

Some of these beliefs rank with superstitions in their effect upon the credulity of man.

Do you believe that the thickness of fur upon an animal indicates a cold or a mild winter? That if the muskrat builds a big house there will be high water? If the squirrel stores many nuts the winter will be long?

If you do there is the possibility that you are among the many who have a firm belief in signs and portents.

At best any attempt to read the future through natural manifestations is likely to be inaccurate and appeal more to imagination than to logic.

* * *

A SURE SIGN—Old woodsmen, old Indians, and old women are all held as venerable representatives of the occult in weather forecasting.

They overlook the possibility that good nutrition, not the coming cold weather, has provided the fur bearer with a thick pelt; that the muskrat builds his house high because three additional animals have been added to the colony and can therefore carry more material for the house; and that the squirrel has stached away an unusually large supply of nuts—because there were more nuts for him to gather.

No, the old Indian, the old woodsman and the old woman are guessing the meaning of what they observe. They have only a part of the facts and they voice the obvious.

One of the surest signs that a long cold winter is approaching was revealed by an old Indian who, upon being asked to prognosticate, led his questioner through the woods to the dwelling of a white man.

"Bad winter coming," said the descendant of Powhatan, pointing. "Whiteman cut much wood, make big pile outside of wigwam. Ugh!"

* * *

WHAT WE KNOW—The U. S. Weather Bureau and its far flung observation posts are in a position to give the best answers in the still inexact science of weather forecasting

For the amateur there remains only the primitive instruments such as the mule's tail that turns pink when it rains or the Old Witch who comes out of her little house when bad weather threatens.

For persons with still more limited knowledge of natural science it is enough to know that an umbrella is indicated when it rains, and the discarded ties and rolled sleeves is the barometer of warm weather.

And it is equally obvious that if rainfall is scant the water levels of the Great Lakes will decline, which is the present unsurprising development. So why waste government money making a study of it.

The first of the month is when doorbells call people to the front window.

It's difficult to find a really industrious person who has a busy tongue.

School Pupils Present Thanksgiving Program

NAHMA—The pupils in Miss McClinchy's room entertained their mothers Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 17, with a Thanksgiving program, featuring an Indian theme. Following the program, tea was served with Mrs. Joe Sefcik at the service.

An interesting Indian village was on exhibit in the room as were many articles made by local Indians.

The program consisted of the songs, "Two Little Pumpkins," "Fun at Thanksgiving," "Hiawatha," "Harvest Song," "Tom-Tom Rhythms" with piano accompaniment and "On Top of Old Smoky," sung by all the pupils.

A reading, "How Pretty Said, Thank You" by Lois Cayemberg, and two recitations, "The Indians Lived Here Long Ago" by Brian Groleau and "Let Us Give Thanks" by Billy Labadie, were given. Other songs were "Old John Brown Had a Little Indian" by Billy Labadie, Tommy Krutina and Leo Bourasaw; "Indian Lullaby" by Christine Peterson, Ann Turek, Sally Sundling and Margaret Beaver; "Pioneer Girls Song" by Joan Sefcik, and "Song by the Farmers" by Lester Lake, Allen Lake and Frank Stupak and "Song by the Hunters" by Bill Labadie and Tommy Krutina.

The second grade boys participated in an Indian Dance, and the Caribon Dance was performed by medicine man, Brian Groleau, and Caribou men, Leo Boursaw, Gary Larson, Albert Cook, Jerry Abbote, Don Hardwick, Brian Schwartz and Irvin Dayson.

With The Hunters

Successful hunters on the second day of the season included Roland Bramer who shot an eight point bucw at 10 a. m. in his favorite hunting spot—the Haybarn Marsh.

Lt. Comdr. Charles Gainor also filled his license Monday hunting north of the Junction.

Port Huron Tornado Damage Of May 21 Just About Cleared

By LOUIS J. DUNN
Executive News Editor
Port Huron Times Herald

PORT HURON (AP)—It will be six months today since the first real tornado in Port Huron history roared in from the southwest.

Today, except for tree stumps, a casual observer would have difficulty tracing the storm's path or even finding evidence that there was one.

Most of the homes have been rebuilt or repaired. The shattered trees have been cleared away. City crews still are repairing some of the broken sidewalks, but other damaged facilities have been restored.

Sarnia Hit Harder

Born May 21 near Smiths Creek, a farming community eight miles southwest of Port Huron, the storm rolled in at 4:40 p.m., skipped across the St. Clair River to batter Sarnia, Ont., and continued on into Canada where it spent itself.

In its wake at Port Huron were 39 persons injured, one killed (another died later of injuries), 390 homes destroyed. Appraisers fixed the damage at $3,990,000.

The Canadian area was harder hit. Four persons were killed, 57 were hurt and the Sarnia business district was battered with a loss estimated at $8,000,000.

The storm centered in Port Huron around a half-mile wide section in the south end, but it knocked out power lines serving the whole city. The water system was crippled and was virtually useless.

Volunteers from Detroit, Pontiac, Bay City, Saginaw and Flint turned out to help get the injured to hospitals, clear streets and give emergency aid. The Red Cross set up temporary shelters for the homeless.

More than $33,000 was raised in a disaster fund by public subscription to help offset $60,000 spent by the Red Cross to help the victims.

There is only clear sky now over streets that had been shaded for 75 years by the elms and maples that fell in the storm.

The lesson of the tornado has not gone unheeded. Emergency-conscious city officials now have a disaster plan ready for the next one, when and if it strikes.

And townspeople have greater respect for their basements—and for the weatherman.

Fish Frys Take Place Of Bingo

BAY PORT (AP)—Fish are replacing bingo cards on church tables at bazaars and charity functions. The reason: a high fine on bingo, a low price on fish.

Many church organizations have adopted charity fish fries to supplant revenue lost by enforcement of the state bingo ban.

They are finding it cheaper, too, due mainly to the efforts of Thumb area fishermen.

Herring prices took a tumble last week as Michigan fishermen reaped the annual fall run of herring.

Boats of the 12-craft Bay Port fishing fleet took to the waters of Saginaw Bay. By Wednesday one boat had come in with a single load of four tons.

Thursday's total was 30,000 pounds and 125,000 pounds a day was expected soon. That's a lot of fish.

Bay Port's fish packers ice the herring in 50-pound boxes and express it through the Midwest and the East. Bay Port's citizens also rushed to take advantage of the run, lining the docks daily.

This year's run is late, probably due to the mild weather. The latest previous run was Nov. 7, 1943. The earliest was Oct. 19, 1939.

But then the herring didn't know about the bingo ban. You see they've been away all year.

Air Coach Business Continues To Climb

By STEVEN V. DAVID

NEW YORK (AP)—The air coach business, providing fast transportation for 30 per cent less than standard fare, continues to climb like a jet plane. The industry thinks this sort of thing can go on for years.

Airline men, pointing out that profit margins are slim, like to suggest that only the angels fly cheaper. But since the future of the industry appears to be in the mass-transportation field, they're out to make the most of it.

Frills Removed

Nearly all of them plan to put additional planes into this service in the months ahead. Many will be older aircraft that spent their seven-year depreciable life on the standard-fare runs. For the air coach — or "air tourist" — business is based on the most economical handling of the greatest number of people. You get there without many of the so-called "frills" of standard-fare travel.

The industry is confident about the outlook for business next year and in the years beyond that, largely because of the growth prospects in the coach field.

"We see a substantial growth in 1954," says William J. Hogan, vice president and treasurer of American Airlines, "and we look for a 100 per cent growth between 1953 and 1960. The greater part of this will be in the tourist bracket, but standard fare traffic also is growing."

Traffic Increases

Pan American World Airways notes a 25 per cent jump in traffic between the mainland and Hawaii since air tourist service was started last December.

Eastern Air Lines expects to increase the percentage of coach-class business to 50 per cent of the total from the present 30 per cent. President W. A. Patterson of United Air Lines also sees growing coach traffic, but adds:

"It remains to be seen whether tourist traffic at today's fares will prove to be as profitable under normal demand conditions."

No Snow Yet; Colder Likely

No snow in sight, except a few flurries tonight—that's the word from Weatherman Emil Ellingson of Marquette, filling in for S. E. Decker at the U.S. Weather Bureau here.

Colder weather is on the way, however. Low tonight and Sunday night will be about 30, with a high Sunday of about 40. From a high early Friday morning of 54, the temperature slid to 38 at 9:40 this morning.

The first rain since Nov. 10 fell in Escanaba Friday afternoon and evening. Amount was 33/100 inch.

Little rain has fallen in Escanaba during October and November. On Nov. 10, 8/100 inch fell, and on Nov. 8, 2/100 inch. The last measurable amount of rain prior to Nov. 8 was 2/100 inch on Oct. 10. Five days from Oct. 10 on had traces too light to measure.

Ellingson commented that Friday's 33/100 inch, had it fallen as snow, would have been about three inches deep. About 1/10 inch of rain, he said, equals about an inch of snow.

The high plains states had snow, rain and sleet Friday and Friday night. In the Dakotas and Nebraska there was three to six inches and in eastern South Dakota as much as nine inches. International Falls, Minn., and Bemidji, Minn., each had six inches of snow this morning.

Park Falls, in northwestern Wisconsin, had a freezing drizzle this morning.

A television antenna at Bonefeld's Store, 915 Ludington St., collapsed during the night, apparently as a result of wind pressure. The highest wind velocity in the 24-hour period ending at 7 a. m. was about 25 mph, Ellingson said.

Hit-And-Run Driver Yells He's Sorry

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Here's the story of a polite hit-and-run motorist:

"I'm sorry I hit you," the motorist told Frank E. Munyak, 30-year-old St. Louis engineer Friday. Munyak said the driver shouted the apology from his car, then sped away.

Munyak walked to his own car, drove home and called police. He was taken to city hospital and treated for a bruise on the left leg.

Frogmen Must Undergo Ultra-Severe Test

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Hell Week for Navy frogmen is the third week of a 12-week training course. The volunteer swims, hikes and crawls an obstacle course and must survive psychological tests. The day begins at 4 a. m. When weaknesses show up under stress of near exhaustion, explosions, lack of sleep or food, or even conflicting orders, it is a flunk for the candidate.

Frogmen usually precede an amphibious beach landing for reconnaisance and demolition.

In one class only 14 officers and 26 men qualified, of 17 officers and 52 men. In another only 7 officers and 15 enlisted men qualified from a starting group of 15 officers and 68 men.

Those who qualify are members of the Navy's Underwater Demolition Team. Courses are conducted twice annually here.

Something For the Boys

It's the season for nominating "queens" of this or that, so we've rounded up a few for your edification. It seems that when you want to promote anything, from carpet tacks to multi-ton bulldozers, the first thing you do is go out and get yourself a pretty model. Of course you notice the pictures of pretty gals. Who wouldn't? But if you want to join the great national guessing game, ask yourself a day or so after seeing the picture—"Now what the dickens was she supposed to be promoting?" Anyhow, it takes your mind of H-bombs, Communist spies, blizzards and the high cost of living.

Griffith Sees Pennant Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Looking ahead at 84, Clark Griffith for the first time in many years sees a definite pennant threat in his Washington Senators.

"Give us some help in a spot or two," Griff said at his birthday party Friday, "and we'll cause a lot of trouble."

Griffith and his board of strategy, headed by Manager Bucky Harris, are pretty well pleased with the Senators' pitching prospects for 1954 — notably Bob Porterfield, who posted the league's best record last season, a glittering 22-10.

Along with Porterfield, Griffith and Harris expect their starting pitchers will be Frank Shea, Chuck Stobbs, Walter Masterson and an unheralded youngster named Bob Ross.

More than 100 wellwishers showed up for Griffith's birthday party.

President Eisenhower sent a message of congratulations. The Lone Rangec, one of Griffith's heroes, made a special recording for the occasion. And FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover attended in person to lead the singing of "Happy Birthday."

Martinez Gains Win Over Vejar

NEW YORK (AP)—Vince Martinez moves on to a January date with Carmen Basilio or Rocky Casillo and soldier Chico Vejar goes back to Ft. Benning Monday morning.

That is the new result of Friday night's lively 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden in which Martinez won a unanimous decision with his quick hands and stabbing jab.

Vejar was down for an automatic eight-count from a right to the jaw in the second round of the bout witnessed by 7,319 fans who paid $27,267.

After the knockdown, Chico rallied strongly with a swarming body attack that should have pleased the TV viewers back at camp.

Referee Petey Scalzo and Judge Frank Forbes scored it 6-4 and Judge Art Aidala 6-3-1, all for Martinez. The AP card had it 6-2-2 in favor of Martinez.

Russia Can't Supply Demand For Glasses

NEW YORK (AP) — Copies of Pravda reaching here from Moscow report no eye glasses are being sold in many cities of Russia.

The Soviet paper says the leaders of the Soviet Ministry of Health are being more near-sighted than the persons with defective vision they are supposed to provide for.

It quotes an official of the Ministry of Health as admitting only half the demand for glasses is being met.

Battle Death Toll Of U.S. In Korea To Exceed 30,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. battle death toll in Korea will pass 30,000 when the Pentagon begins next January to close out its books on American casualties in the conflict.

After the truce and completion of prisoner exchanges, the death figures stood at 25,604 and the missing at 7,955. The Army Friday announced confirmation of 400 more deaths among those previously listed as missing.

The Army announced Friday that unless new information appears by January, it will declare 4,000 men listed as missing for more than a year as "presumed dead." The remaining Army missing, unless they are found, will be declared dead one full year after their disappearance.

The Air Force, with 671 listed as missing, said it will declare 170 presumed dead next month.

The Marine Corps has 493 missing and the Navy 78, but neither said they had any plans to declare any of them dead in the near future.

The U. S. casualty total in Korea —142,277 killed, wounded or missing—remains the same. It is a preliminary figure, however, and is being checked and re-checked as new information gets to the Pentagon.

Son Just Home From Korea Kills Father, Hunting Near Gladwin

GLADWIN (AP) — A long-awaited father and son reunion became a tragedy Friday when Wallace Haas, a returned Korean veteran, accidentally shot his father, William, 54, on a hunting trip.

The son said he excitedly fired at his first buck and failed to notice his father standing on the other side of the deer in the line of fire.

Wallace returned home a week ago after two years in Korea.

Haas was the seventh Michigan deer hunter killed by gunfire since the season opened last Sunday.

Mossadegh Will Not Confess Past Deeds At Treason Hearing

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Ex-Premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, facing an army court-martial on treason charges, laughed aside a prosecution suggestion today that he confess alleged past misdeeds.

The suggestion was made by Chief Prosecutor Brig. Hossein Azemodeh at the opening of the 12th session in the trial of the former dictator. He is accused of attempting to overthrow Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, defying royal decrees and illegally dissolving the lower House of Parliament.

"If you stand up and confess to your past deeds, the first person to stand up and sacrifice himself for you will be me," the prosecutor declared.

Mossadegh's reply was an ironic "God help you."

ABC AUDITED PAID CIRCULATION

for advertising, too!

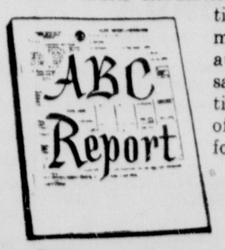

What a fix we'd all be in without those standards or measurement for the goods you buy and sell. Imagine the confusion, waste and doubt in business transactions if we didn't have accepted standards of weights and measures—known values.

We believe it is just as necessary for us to tell you what you get for your advertising dollars, in terms of known circulation value, as it is for you to do business with your customers on the basis of recognized standards. That's why this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

WHAT IS THE A.B.C.? The Bureau is a cooperative and nonprofit association of 3450 publishers, advertising agencies and advertisers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

WHAT A.B.C. DOES FOR YOU. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office and makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. He has access to all of our books and records to obtain the FACTS that tell you what you get for your money when you advertise in this newspaper.

WHAT A.B.C. REPORTS TELL YOU. The circulation FACTS obtained by the A.B.C. auditor are condensed in easy to read A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; where the circulation goes; how it was sold and many other FACTS about the audience we provide for your sales messages. Make your advertising investments on the basis of this audited information. Ask for a copy of our A.B.C. report.

For Perfect Turkey Roast, Don't Trust to Dumb Luck

THE THANKSGIVING TURKEY is a tradition in America after the Pilgrims ate wild turkeys. Proper roasting is a must.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For turkey-roasting advice, we asked our Chicago friend, Kathryn B. Niles, for her best method. Miss Niles is home economics director of The Poultry and Egg National Board. Here is her reply.

To Truss: Fasten the neck skin to the back with skewers. Bring wing tips onto the back. Close abdominal opening with skewers and cord. Tie drumsticks to tail. A skewer above or through the tail helps to hold this cord in place. If there is a bridge of skin at abdominal opening, push drumsticks underneath this bridge.

To roast turkey: Brush skin of bird with cooking fat. Place bird, breast up, on a rack at least ½-inch high in a shallow, open pan. If a meat thermometer is used, insert in center of thigh muscle adjoining the body cavity.

Lay piece of aluminum foil over the bird. Pinch the foil at the drumstick and breast ends. Leave the cap loose over the top and at the sides. The turkey may be covered with fat-moistened cheesecloth, large enough to cover the top and drape down on all sides. Aluminum foil or cloth helps in uniform browning. Basting is unnecessary.

Place in preheated slow oven (325 degrees F.) Do not sear. Do not add water. Do not cover. If cheesecloth dries during cooking, moisten with drippings in the bottom of the pan.

Internal temperature should be between 190 and 195 degrees in 325-degree F. oven.

Timetable

Ready to Cook Weight	Total Roasting Time in Hours Stuffed Bird
6 to 8	3¾ to 4½
10 to 12	4½ to 5
16 to 18	5 to 6½
20 to 24	7½ to 9

THANKSGIVING DINNER: Celery and olives, blackbean soup with lemon slices, roast turkey, oyster dressing, giblet gravy, fresh cranberry sauce, baked stuffed sweet potatoes, buttered Brussels sprouts, buttered white onions sprinkled with parsley, assorted rolls, butter or margarine, lettuce and green pepper salad, French dressing, pumpkin pie with vanilla ice cream, cheese, nuts and raisins, coffee, milk.

Always set a hot glass cooking utensil on a dry surface, and use dry pot holders with which to handle it.

Cook asparagus stalks in a small amount of lightly salted water just until tender-crisp. Drain and keep warm. Melt butter in skillet; add pecans; cook and stir briefly, just until butter begins to turn brown. Stir in lemon juice and salt. Pour sauce over asparagus. Serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Her work has largely been centered in the colorful island of Cebu, where she had wide contacts with nationals of that field in homes and schools. She has trained the natives in evangelistic work.

The public is invited to see the colored pictures of the Philippinos at their work, in their homes, and in their schools. Miss Erickson will describe the land and people and their response to the missionary efforts.

A Gay Homemade Tablecloth Is Easy On That Budget

DENIM DOES IT . . . This gay tablecloth is made of plaid and plain denim, thrifty, effective and easy.

By DOROTHY ROE

The buffet dinner has emerged as the most popular form of entertaining in today's servantless households—and the gayer the table setting the better.

Many apartment - dwellers set out food and appointments on the living room table—since there is no dining room—and let guests help themselves. Since many such tables are of the long, narrow variety not adaptable to the average tablecloth, the clever homemaker will stitch up a gay, informal cloth in suitable measurements.

Sanforized solid colored denim teamed with bright plaid denim as shown here is a good fabric selection for this type cloth. Trick it out with napkin holders that also serve as space savers when stitched to sides of tablecloth.

This particular cloth will fit a table 36" x 45" with graceful hang-over on all sides. If your particular table has slightly different measurements, adjust sections of fabric accordingly. Incidentally, this same cloth will see double duty in warm weather when used for narrow outdoor dinner tables.

Local sewing center experts tell us that for this cloth you will need two yards of solid color denim 36" wide and 2¼ yards of 36" plaid denim. Use mercerized sewing thread to match solid colored denim. Then proceed as follows:

To cut solid denim: Cut two sections 15 by 72 inches, each on a selvage. Cut one strip 2 by 48 inches, for napkin loops. To cut plaid denim: Cut one section 23 by 72 inches. Cut six 13-inch squares, for napkins.

Napkin loops are made by folding narrow strips in half lengthwise, wrong sides together. Turn raw edges in ¼ inch; baste. Machine stitch along both edges. Cut into six 8-inch pieces.

Pin loops to plaid panel, spacing loops 18 inches apart, measuring from center of plaid. Three loops to each side of cloth. Pin solid sections over center panel, right sides together, selvage edges even with edges of plaid. Stitch, catching in loop ends.

Next trim seam allowance on plaid. Stitch selvage edge down for a welt seam.

Finish edges of tablecloth and napkins with ¼-inch hems. To do this quickly, use the narrow hemmer attachment for your sewing machine.

Raising Turkeys For Local Market Is Described By Masonville Sisters

The first Thanksgiving Day was held in 1622 by decree of Gov. Bradford of Plymouth Colony—but the turkeys that graced the Pilgrim's tables were small tough birds compared to today's tender meaty ones.

Wild turkeys are noted for their strong flight and they are still hunted as game birds in some sections of the United States, but the domesticated turkeys that come to the table during the holidays have been specially developed to provide the maximum of meat.

Turkey raising has become big business, valued at about $50 million a year in the United States.

Interesting And Stupid

A new and relatively small part of this growing industry is Turkey Track Ranch at Masonville, owned and operated by two sisters, Mrs. Mildred Ranguette and Mrs. Ebba Nevans, at their old home, the Nels Ebbesen place.

Turkey raising is interesting, the sisters agree, but the birds themselves are "the dumbest things you ever saw."

The 200 turkeys they have are broadbreasted bronze, a special strain noted for the large amount of white meat. The young birds, only a day or two old, were purchased last spring from a breeder in Iowa.

"You have to teach the poults—the young birds — to eat and drink," said Mrs. Ranguette. "They do appear to be the dumbest things you ever saw. They are attracted by anything shiny, so green marbles are put in the trays of food. They peck at the marbles—and learn to eat."

Must Be Kept Dry

"But they are interesting, too," added Mrs. Nevans. "They are very tender while they are young and require a great deal of care at first."

The heaviest loss is likely to occur when the poults are three to seven days old and being "taught" to eat. The young birds are not much larger than baby chicks at first but grow rapidly.

"They are very tender and susceptible to disease," said Mrs. Ranguette. "For the first eight weeks we kept the birds inside so they would not get damp or get their feet wet. It is not safe to let them out until they have a good covering of feathers."

Besides disease, the turkeys have some peculiaries of habit, including "feather picking" and occasional ostracism of one of the flock.

Condemned to Death

To prevent the birds from picking feathers off themselves and their fellows, a metal bit is placed in the mouth of each turkey. The sisters made a special trip to a Canadian turkey raiser to find out how this should be done.

"Sometimes it appears they have condemned one of their number to death," said Mrs. Nevans. "The birds will begin pecking the bird on the head and unless stopped they will kill him without even drawing a drop of blood. When he falls over they ignore him."

The sight of a hawk, the barking of a dog, the sound of an airplane will often throw the turkey flock into panic. Usually, however, they are quiet, and only recently have they begun to gobble and the males to strut in the manner they are most often pictured.

Growing Market

Once taught to eat, the turkeys begin to grow rapidly. Now they are being fed corn for fattening the gain in weight averages over one pound per week, said Mrs. Ranguette.

All of the birds now at Turkey Track Ranch will be marketed this year, most of them for the Christmas trade, and will be sold dressed to individuals on order, said the sisters. The turkeys are fed a balanced commercial ration.

The turkeys are kept only from June to December. At marketing time the weight of the birds will range from about 12 pounds to a maximum of 35 pounds.

Turkeys are now being marketed the year around, however, and in smaller sizes for the average family. But the large birds are in demand during the holiday season.

"We intend to stay in the turkey raising business so long as it is profitable," said Mrs. Nevans. "This year we started with 200 poults—next year we plan to have 400 and double our flock."

Rise In Toll Tough On This Motorist

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—The very first day that the toll was raised from five to ten cents, a motorist handed a nickle to the collector at the Charter Oak Bridge. That's all his wife had given him as he left for work, he explained, because she "didn't know they'd raised the price."

"I felt so sorry for the guy," a bridge official said, "that I dug down into my pocket and gave the fellow a nickel so he could cross the bridge."

The driver didn't say where he intended to get the dime for the return trip home.

Soo Hill Mennonites Building New Mission

SOO HILL — The religious group of Mennonites in this area have purchased an acre of land at Soo Hill and are in the process of building a mission there. When this mission is ready for religious services, it will be the first building in Wells Township constructed for specific religious purposes.

The Mennonites had previously met at the Danforth school. However, when the Wells Township School Board decided in the favor of the principle of separation of Church and State this fall, the group determined to provide its own meeting place now rather than at a future time as had been planned.

The labor and funds used for this construction are being provided through volunteer workers of Mennonite congregations in Upper and Lower Michigan and the Mennonite Mission Board whose headquarters is at Elkhart, Indiana. The volunteer workers are staying at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Paul Horst at Newhall.

Building 24 x 42

Rev. Norman Weaver of Gulliver is directing the construction of the mission. The present plans call for the excavation and preparation of a basement meeting hall which will be ready for services this winter. The building itself will be 24 x 42 feet, and the completed structure will be designed along simple lines in conformance with other missions provided by this sect.

There are eleven Mennonite missions in the Upper Peninsula. The arrival of this religious sect in the vicinity of Escanaba is recent. However, Rev. Horst, the leader of the group in this area, reports that attendance at meetings held last spring was sizable. When a sufficient number of persons adopt this faith, it will become a separate Mennonite Church.

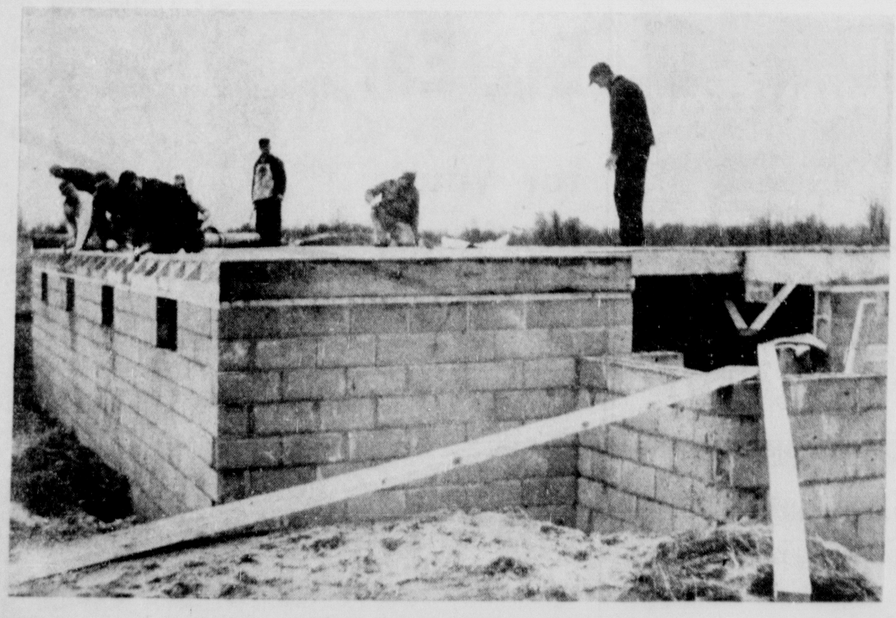

The doctrine of this religious sect was formed in about 1540 by Menno Simons of Holland. Its religious growth developed in Holland and Switzerland. Its members moved to Pennsylvania, the haven of the persecuted, in 1683, and from there have migrated to all parts of the country.

No Hierarchy

The Mennonites are a fundamentalist group which holds the Bible as the final authority. The church has no hierarchy. Its leaders are men who do not receive a ministerial salary, and all members consider themselves equal in that the sources of their doctrine are available to each in the Scriptures.

Some of the distinguishing tenets of the Mennonites included non belief in infant baptism, or baptism to believers only. They advocate "temperance in all things". In this regard believers abstain from the use of intoxicants, tobacco, gaudy or costly attire, and immoderate action or speech.

The Mennonites and the members of the Union Sunday School have agreed to cooperate in bringing a community meeting place to the Soo Hill area. Members of the Union Sunday School who had previously met at the Soo Hill School will be welcomed at the new mission. Other persons interested in participating in the services there will also be welcome to attend.

Shepherd Dog Is Vegetarian

WEST COVINA, Calif. (AP) — Shep eats his corn on the cob, wolfs a stack of cakes and buttered toast and washes it all down with big gulps of coffee. For dessert he likes candy.

Shep, a four-year-old Australian shepherd dog owned by Mrs. Harry Miller, earns his groceries on the Miller's poultry ranch by bringing in the mail from the roadside post box and carrying messages to men working on the ranch. He herds chickens too.

Frank Beck Reminisces About 43 Years In Grocery Business Here

By JAMES R. LOWELL

"Oh yes, we still keep a few scoops about the place, but we have little use for them any more," said Frank Beck, dean of Escanaba merchants, when discussing old time stores and store keeping methods—a subject he is perhaps better acquainted with than any other resident in these parts.

Looking about his grocery mart—the Beck Store at 1321 Ludington—as streamlined and up-to-date as any grocery store in the city, he added, "and we have a few lamp chimneys, a rig to cut plug tobacco the size you want it and we still have a few sticks of Faulkner's Stove Polish, the kind your mother—or maybe your grandmother—used to cup up and mix with a little water and soap and put a shine with it on the old cook stove."

Mr. Beck was in a reminiscent mood when the subject was brought up. He had just announced that he has decided to ease up somewhat on the load of actively managing his business. He is turning over the bulk of the management to his two sons Arol and John (Jack).

In Business 43 Years

"A fellow gets to be a little tired when he gets to be my age," he explained. But he declined to state how old he was. At any rate he has been selling groceries, without any letup, for 43 years and that, by any reckoning, is a long time.

"No, we haven't much use for scoops, anymore," he said, returning to the subject dealing with days when both Escanaba and he were young. "You'd have a tough time trying to run a grocery store in those days without at least a dozen scoops of different sizes . . . There was a large scoop for sugar, another for oatmeal, one for dry beans, one for rice and tapioca, another for coffee, and a somewhat smaller one for tea, a tiny one for spices and, oh yes," the grocer's eyes twinkled, "we had one about the size of a clam shell for 'snuss'—I suppose you know what that is". . . . "Ya, 'Norwegian stockfood.' "

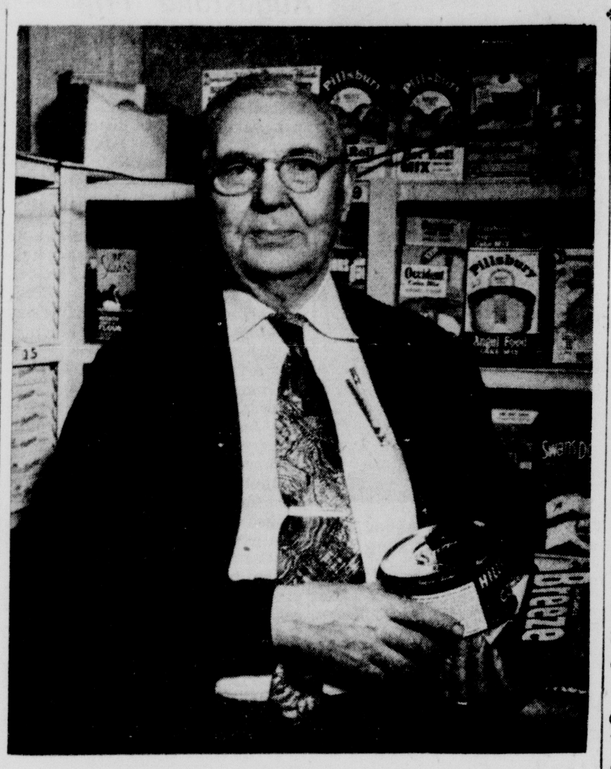

He explained that though the familiar round boxes of Copenhagen snuff had been on the market long before 1910, old time Scandinavians had a preference for that product put up in those urn shaped crockery jars that are now so much prized by antique collectors. "I remember one customer," said Beck, "who used to buy a quart jar of snuff every Saturday night."

Grocery Business Hard Work

There is still plenty to do in a grocery store in spite of packaging and the other multitude of labor saving methods of merchandising that have come into business today, said Mr. Beck. But grocery business was grinding hard work in the early days when he started.

An efficient grocery clerk, in the early days, had to be nimble, quick-witted, versatile and something of an acrobat. Customers in those days, the veteran groceryman explained, didn't walk along the shelves and help themselves to this package and that can and finally take them to the checker at the door. Counters barred the customers from the shelves. They might be suspected of shop lifting if they acted too free with the merchandise. It was up to the customer to name his or her wants and up to the clerk to supply those wants with a minimum of delay.

Serving the public meant that the clerk had to shinnie all over the place—climb shelves for this or that item not in easy reach, run down into the basement for potatoes, run into the back room and fill the kerosene can and on his way back grab a gum drop or cull potato with which to stop up the spout, scoop up a sample of farmer butter for the customer to taste and if it passed inspection scoop out from the jar the required amount with a wicked long bladed knife that looked like a Philippine bolo, pick out a couple of herring from the open barrel and be sure not to slop any of the brine on the nearby box of prunes. . . .

F. O. Beck in his store

Open Two Nights A Week

Customers, particularly those from the country, usually visited the store once a week, and their shopping lists, for that reason, were long. That meant calesthenics without letup for the clerk while the rush was on. The hours were long and stores remained open on Wednesday and Saturday evenings and also on payday nights. And when there "wasn't anything to do," there was always shelves to replenish, eggs to candle, telephone calls to answer, floors to sweep, windows to wash and flies to swat. Nevertheless, the grocery clerk's job was highly regarded as a vocation for young men. There was a future in it and there were always applications for clerks on the waiting list.

The delivery man's job, however, was not as well thought of, and it was very often, one of the petty vexations of the business. It was the deliveryman's job to take care of the horses. That meant that he had to get up early, feed, curry and groom the animals and clean out the barn. (Who would want to be a horse chambermaid?) It meant that the driver would have to be out in all kinds of weather—sometimes to drive a mile or more through the mud to deliver a couple of loaves of bread. Then, in addition, a lot of the store's drudgery became part of his daily routine. It was hard to keep a delivery man very long, he said.

Came Here From Finland

Mr. Beck became acquainted with the grocery business at an early age. Coming here from his native Finland when he was a lad of 18, he had to turn to many types of employment to earn a livlihood. For several years he worked in the woods, and anxious to get ahead, he saved up enough money to pay for his tuition in business college. Later he tried his hand at clerking, working for a time in Chicago and later, in Minneapolis.

Although he was born in Finland and his forebears for generations had lived there, he was what is termed a Swede-Finn. That is, his folks were of Swedish stock, lived up to Swedish traditions and spoke the Swedish language This Swedish background had a definite bearing on his career for it was his Swedish associations that helped establish him in this particular line of business.

Shortly after the turn of the century, the cooperative store movement began to flourish in this country. Scandinavian countries, notably Finland, had been particularly successful in the promotion of these enterprises. And people from those countries proudly proclaimed it here.

Active in the North Star Lodge, a Scandinavian fraternal order in Escanaba, Beck talked cooperation with members of the society and urged the launching of a cooperative grocery store here. A few friends, promising support, urged him to go ahead and see what he could do, and he went out and sought financial backing from his compatriots.

Small Beginning

The Skandia Cooperative Store came into being as a result of his solicitation—launched with the modest backing of $1,410.00 capital stock. The store was set up in a building at 814 Delta, which in recent years has housed the Star grocery.

It didn't take a great deal of cash to get started in those days, Mr. Beck explains. Overhead costs were very light and wholesale houses were very lenient. The store was operated on a very modest scale for several years, but business increased steadily and it was apparent from the start that it was a going concern.

Then came World War I, with its increase in prices and its business boom. Jobs were plentiful and people spent freely, constantly calling for items required by a higher scale of living. Business increased many fold and though credit was freely given, the accounts were about as solvent as they possibly could be. Stockholders grasped the opportunity to expand and another grocery store was opened on the North Side.

Business snowballed to such a degree that one year it reached a peak of $365,000 gross.

Another Coop Launched

Naturally, other groups cast covetous eyes on this enterprise. Their moving spirits asked "Why can't we do something like that?" The response "We can," eventually came. A railroad group, far more numerous and with stronger financial backing, launched a cooperative store of its own. It started out as a big concern—housed in impressive and commodious quarters—the site of the present Beck Store.

The new store flourished for a time, but it seems that railroad workers, like many other groups having kindred interests, are not as cooperative minded as they could be. Patronage dwindled and so, when the Skandia Store made an offer for the business and the building it was readily accepted.

In a new building—with a meat market on one side and a resplendent grocery store on the other—the Skandia Store went into high gear and continued to thrive and grow.

Came The Depression

Then suddenly, almost without warning, things took a flop. The depression had set in.

Business took a nose dive. The railroad employe group, mainstay of business generally in the city, dwindled. Hundreds had been laid off and their buying power, heretofore so firmly relied on, had shrunk to a degree not even imagined before. And timber, the source of livelihood for thousands of people in surrounding areas, had little or no market. That brought added hundreds to the verge of destitution.

The Skandia Store was near bankruptcy. The unlimited credit it had extended in the past now became an ogre that threatened to devour it.

Things went from bad to worse, and at last, at a meeting stockholders dreaded to attend, they were confronted with the dismal truth. Accounts in excess of $57,000 were on the books with little chance of anywhere near that amount collectable—and the situation was getting worse every day.

Beck Takes Over

Frank Beck, no less downhearted than the rest, believed in the philosophy that one has to hit bottom to rise. "Things will come out all right," he declared at the meeting. But the stockholders were through. Many of them were in financial distress themselves and their chief concern was how they could get out from under without too much of a loss. Beck made them an offer and it was accepted. It has been his store ever since.

His faith has been justified. Keeping pace with modern merchandising methods and insisting always on the best in goods and service, he has, through the years, enjoyed a substantial business up to the present. But it can never again amount to the patronage which the Skandia Store enjoyed when it was going high, wide and handsome.

What is the most interesting hunting experience you have ever had? (Question suggested by James Lowell, Daily Press staff)

Art Rathbun, city truck driver, 211 S. 6th St.: "That was years ago. It's when I was hunting rabbits with my dad, and he shot a rabbit, when he went to pick it up there was a rattlesnake between my dad's legs, and I had to shoot it out with a shotgun. He ran over to where he seen the rabbit fall and when he got over there he almost stepped on the snake. He just stood still while I shot it. That was in Lower Michigan, just outside of Grand Rapids.

Pat Powley, farmer, Gladwin, Gladwin County, here with house trailer: "That would be today. This is as true as I'm standing here. There was a hole on the side of a hill. I got down on my knees and looked in the hole. A little bear, about 150-pounds, was sitting in there and looking out at me. That bear wasn't back in there over a foot and a half or two feet. He went back in the hole and we didn't bother digging him out. That was up north of the Haymeadow."

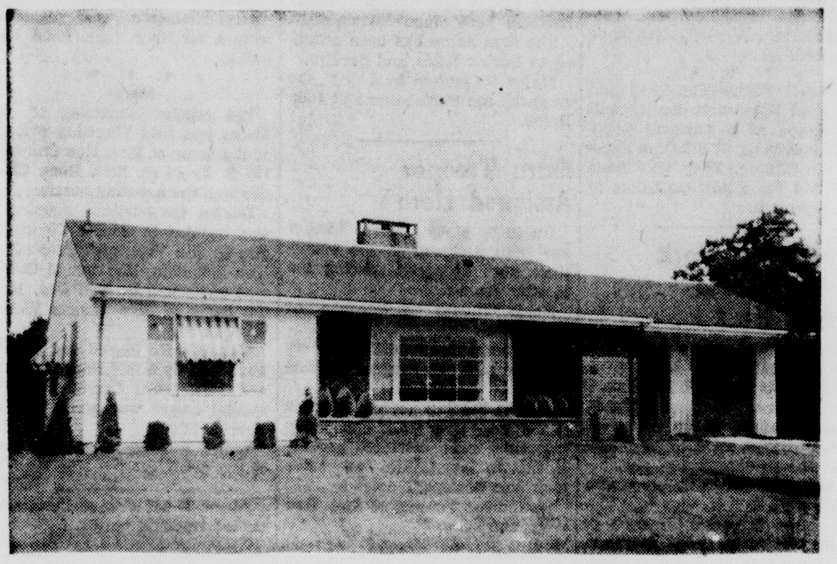

Robert Peltier, works at Harnischfeger, Wells: "Last year, I was hunting—it was around four o'clock in the afternoon—in the woods around Stonington. And I saw a buck come out. It was a big buck. I fired one shot and missed. The next morning I came back in the same place and a doe came out. I was waiting there for waiting there for about 10 minutes. Then the buck came out and I aimed for his front shoulders and got him. And it was the same buck that it was the afternoon before. The buck weighed 187 pounds."

Cedric Coates, mason contractor, Detroit, hunting in Trenary from the Charlie Trudell farm: "What would that be? I've shot several deer but I'm just trying to think of an interesting thing. I killed a big 8-point buck two years ago that gave me quite a thrill. I had to hit him three times to get him down. I broke one front leg and he was still running pretty fast. He went down and was still thrashing and I had to put another one through his neck."

FOR BETTER HOMES — BUILD-REPAIR-REMODEL — FOR BETTER LIVING

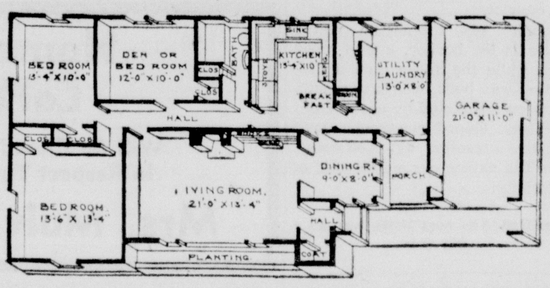

The PARIS

Charming Inside And Out

Rooms	Seven
Bedrooms	Three
Closets	Six
Cubage:
House	25,000 ft.
Garage	3,600 ft.
Dimensions	63'x30'

Thoroughly modern and unusually charming both inside and out, "The Paris," today's presentation from the Home of the Week Plan Service, contains seven good-sized rooms including two regular bedrooms plus an optional room which can be used as a den, bedroom or guest room.

Measuring 63'x30', "The Paris" will require at least a 90-foot lot. Cubage of the house proper is 25,000 feet; cubage of the garage is 3,600 feet. The architectural charms of this house will be most effectively emphasized if "The Paris" is placed a good distance back from the road. Be sure to select a site where you can reap full scenic benefits from the beautiful large picture window in the front living room wall.

Plantings in front of the living room add to the exterior charm of "The Paris," as well as to the decorative appeal of the living room. Take into consideration both the picture window and the plantings in selecting the interior decoration of the living room as well as in planning the arrangement of the furniture.

Small, but well lighted and pleasant, the dining room is just across the central hallway from the kitchen so that serving meals in this room will be as convenient as possible. If you prefer a dining room of larger area than designated in the accompanying plan, you can make the adjoining porch smaller in area and utilize this space for the dining room.

In the kitchen itself, there is a breakfast nook which you'll make good use of for many family meals and between-meal snacks, as well as for breakfast. The rest of the kitchen is planned strictly as a work center with all appliances within easy reach of the busy homemaker.

Because of the generous amount of closet space provided throughout "The Paris," the family which lives in this attractively modern home should have no trouble keeping everything in its place. The basement will also provide extra storage area as will the garage; the latter is especially well suited for overhead storage of screens, etc.

All bedrooms, including the optional one, are well lighted and ventilated. The abundance of windows througout "The Paris" helps to make this house both cheerful and pleasant.

For convenience the laundry is located on the first floor of "The Paris"; a first floor location for the laundry is high on the "must list" of most housewives. The only required installation in the basement is the heating plant, this should be installed under the living room.

Another Blow Struck In Fight On Disease

NEW YORK (AP)—A newer sulfa drug, sulfisoxazole or gantrisin, looks best for routine hospital use against a variety of infections, says Dr. Ellard M. Yow of Baylor University College of Medicine. Describing its use on 1,000 patients over a three-year period, he says it is as effective as sulfadizine, and patients do not need to drink large amounts of fluids or alkalies to avoid reactions caused by earlier sulfa drugs. Laboratory tests are not needed to check adverse effects on the blood, as happens with some earlier sulfa drugs, he writes in American Practitioner.

We Like It Here—

Some who don't live here seem to have various ideas as to what should become of the Upper Peninsula.

Fortunately, most of them have little to say about it. The Upper Peninsula of Michigan is and will continue to be what its people make it.

For every disparaging remark, there are at least 10 good ones made by people who know and understand what makes an area tick. The chief factor always is the people in it and the use they make of their resources.

We join heartily in declaring again, with many others, that "We Like It Here!"

Elusive Mink Like Michigan Waters

ANN ARBOR—A frequent resident along Michigan waterways is the valuable fur-bearing mink, according to Karl F. Lagler, University of Michigan associate professor of zoology.

Long and lithe, with sharp features, the animal sports a rich-dark brown fur, found most pleasing in coats for the feminine gender.

With mating season in February or March, mink usually are born in litters of three to eight. Born blind, they don't leave their dens for from six to eight weeks, Dr. Lagler explains.

Despite its abundance of raw materials, high labor costs force the United States to depend largely on imports for its mica supply.

Deer Break Ordinance At Montpelier, Vt.

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — It's against the law for deer to swim in Berlin Pond, Montpelier's municipal reservoir.

But how to get the idea over to the deer? That's the city health officer's current headache.

He recently had reports that farmers' cows were wading in the pond.

That wasn't so tough. There's a city ordinance that prohibits animals from straying into the reservoir. All he had to do was tell the farmers to keep their cows away.

But who is going to tell the deer to keep the law?

Davis Talks On Auto Insurance

Speaking on Compulsory Automobile Insurance before the Gladstone Lions Club Thursday evening at the Yacht Club, Ross P. Davis, local insurance man, said he believed the disadvantages of the plan so far outweigh the few advantages the plan offers as to make it appear not to be the answer to the current problem.

He said compulsory auto insurance is not a safety measure nor is it legislation which assures complete indemnity for bodily injury and property damage arising from operation of a motor vehicle.

"It would not have saved a single one of the 1,727 lives lost in Michigan last year. It would not have prevented any of the 49,110 injuries or reduced the 160,809 accidents. Nor would it have made prudent drivers out of the reckless. The 526 fatal accidents of the 4,622 fatal and injury accidents last year in which no other vehicle was involved would not be affected by compulsory insurance," the speaker declared.

Drawbacks

Under the compulsory plan the liability insurance would not provide any indemnity where all parties are guilty of contributory negligence.

Last year compulsory insurance bills were defeated in the legislatures of the States of New York, Maryland, Alabama and California and in several other states including Michigan legislative committees rejected similar proposals.

The speaker said that in Massachusetts where compulsory auto insurance was adopted in 1926, eleven new mutual insurance companies were formed to capitalize on the state created market and thus far only one has escaped insolvency. He also pointed out that of the 10 highest rated territories in the nation five are now located in Massachusetts.

"A resident of Massachusetts pays on the average three times the premium required for identical coverage in Michigan," Davis said.

Twice as many bodily injury claims are filed in Boston as in any other large city in the nation, the speaker pointed out, and because of extremely high rates only half as many drivers carry increased bodily injury and property damage limits, medical payments and passenger accident insurance as do the nation's policy holders.

Would Retard Safety

The speaker said that it was his belief that compulsory auto insurance would result in retarding of safety programs, raising materially of rates, sharp increase in political pressure, lessening of the quantity and quality of coverage.

Davis said he would recommend as an alternative and the best approach to the problem education in the responsibilities of good citizenship.

Driver training in the schools and colleges is vital in this respect, he said.

Financial responsibility laws such as Michigan now has are effective and compartively simple to adminster. Insurance interests and government officials are currently engaged in studies of methods to further strengthen existing laws, he states.

Safety campaigns are fine, Davis said, for all concerned for the better the campaign the less injured or killed, and the lower the rates.

In conclusion he said not to forget that collision, comprehensive, personal and passenger accident and hospitalization coverage may be purchased now in Michigan under the free enterprise American agency system which provides adequate indemnity for both bodily injury and property damage losses whether the other driver is financially responsible and at much less premium cost than prevailing rates under compulsory auto insurance.

Hermansville Falls 53-35 To Nahma Class E Champs

NAHMA—The Nahma defending U. P. Class E champions stepped out of the U. P. Central League last night to notch a handy 53-35 victory over the Hermansville Redskins of the Little Seven Conference.

Coach Harold Anderson's Arrows started slowly in the first quarter and trailed 7-3 at the end of the period. A 23-point scoring burst in the second period put them in a commanding 26-14 lead at halftime and they were never headed after that.

Both teams scored 10 points in the third stanza and Hermansville stepped up the scoring pace to climb to a six-point deficit, 38-32, early in the final period.

Nahma finished fast, however, to win going away. The Arrows had dropped a 60-58 verdict to Cooks in the opener Tuesday night.

Don Groleau, Nahma center who stands 5-10½ inches, was the scoring star of the night. He pegged in nine field goals and three free throws for a 21-point total.

Coach Don Hill's Redskins were led on the scoreboard by forward Lindo Polazzo who dropped seven field goals and two gift tosses for 14 points. He was the only Redskin to score in two figures.

Nahma's sophomore Bernard Newhouse notched 13 points to trail Groleau in the scoring department for the winners.

There were few fouls in the game and neither team lost a player via the personal foul route.

Nahma made a clean sweep of the evening by winning the reserve game 42-30.

Nahma returns to action in a home stand against Perkins, defending Central League champions, Tuesday night.

New Foul Rule Goes In Effect

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Basketball Assn.'s new rule, designed to forestall intentional fouling and to limit roughness gets its first test tonight in four league games.

The rule provides that the team shooting a personal foul shot in the third and fourth periods gets the ball out of bounds at midcourt — regardless of whether the shot is good — on the third foul committed by a given player nn the same period and on every foul thereafter by that player in that period.

It does not take into consideration fouls made in other periods. The purpose is to prevent a player from excessive fouling in the third and fourth periods.

The experiment will be in effect through games of Sunday, Nov. 29. Then the league will vote whether to continue it for the rest of the season.

In the only game played Friday night, the Rochester Royals moved into sole possession of first place in the Western Division by drubbing the Milwaukee Hawks 81-63. Milwaukee now has dropped nine in a row after winning its opener against Minneapolis.

CONGRATULATIONS — When J. C. Caroline broke Red Grange's 30-year-old six-game ground-gaining record with 1353 yards, the Illinois halfback received a congratulatory message from the old Galloping Ghost. (NEA Photo)

Browns Put Win Streak On Line In Feature Tilt

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cleveland Browns, striving to become pro football's first undefeated team since the Chicago Bears won 11 conference games in 1942, put their eight-game victory streak on the line against the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday in one of the top weekend attractions in the National Football League.

The Chicago Cardinals visit Philadelphia tonight while Sunday's action includes Detroit at the Chicago Bears, Los Angeles at Baltimore, San Francisco vs Green Bay at Milwaukee and Washington at New York.

Otto Graham and company seem to be getting better as the season progresses and they're rated a 10-point favorite to lick the Steelers for the second time. In their previous meeting Cleveland won 34-16.

Detroit, which took over the Western Conference lead last week and is a half-game ahead of Los Angeles, rules a 7½-point choice to turn back the improving Bars. The defending champion Lions have a 6-2 record while Chicago has won two, lost five and tied one.

The Rams, who tied the Cardinals a week ago, hope to get back on the victory trail at the expense of Baltimore. Los Angeles (5-2-1), runnerup to Detroit, is favored by 14 points over the Colts 3-5-0).

San Francisco, after bowing to Cleveland last week to drop out of a first place tie in the Western division, should find the going a lot easier against Green Bay.

The high-scoring Philadelphia Eagles still have a mathematical chance to overhaul the Browns and they're favored by 14 points to overpower the winless Cardinals and keep their faint hopes alive. Philadelphia has won five straight and its overall record is 5-2-1.

In the only game which has no bearing on either league race, the New York Giants are a slight choice to shade the Washington Redskins.

Field Is Whittled To 95 In Pan-American

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Tens of thousands of racing fans, many in colorful sarapes and sombreros, lined the highway leading to Leon today as a sharply whittled field of about 95 drivers headed north on the third lap of the five-day Pan American road race.

Accidents, disqualifications, slow time and other reasons have cut down the original 177 who started the $100,000 classic on the Guatemalan border Thursday.

Italian Lancias and American Lincolns had a firm grip on top honors in their divisions, and these were the first to head for Leon 261 miles away at dawn.

Longest Run Today

Two legs will be run today, marking the longest of the entire five-day dash. From Leon the cars will then go to Durango for the night. Durango is 590 miles from Mexico City.

Over a dozen accidents were reported Friday, but none resulted in deaths. To date, six persons have been killed — two drivers and four spectators.

The leading Lancias are entered in the big sports car class, while the Lincolns are in the big stock car division. Two other classifications also are running — small sports cars and small stock cars.

Milwaukee Driver

Italy's Piero Taruffi and Felice Bonetto are running one-two on the Lancia team.

Chuck Stevenson of Milwaukee was leading in the International Tourist division, or big stock car class. Three other Lincolns followed, driven by Walt Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif., Jack McGrath of Pasadena, Calif., and Johnny Mantz of Los Angeles.

The race ends Monday at Ciudad Juarez across from El Paso, Tex

Hard-Hitting Turner Will Fight Langlois

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pierre Langlois of France, ninth-ranked among the middleweights, takes on hard-punching Jesse Turner of St.Louis in a scheduled 10-round boxing bout at Kiel Auditorium tonight.

Langlois expects to weigh in at about 156 pounds while Turner may go at 155. Both fighters have equal records this year — five wins against two defeats — but Turner has scored four knockouts. Langlois, who employs a fast, moving - in style, hasn't scored a kayo this year.

The fight will be televised nationally (8 p. m. CST., ABC) with the St. Louis area blacked out.

Today Is Big Day On Collegiate Gridirons

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—This is getaway day for most of the country's major college football teams. It also could be bowl-clinching day for three of them and relief day for the members of two conferences who conceivably might be forced to vote a team into the bowls.

Maryland, one of the nation's two major undefeated, untied outfits, could get the Orange Bowl spot against Oklahoma by defeating Alabama. That's fairly simple, but the Big Ten and Pacific Coast conferences are more complicated.

In the Big Ten, Michigan State, Illinois and Wisconsin could wind up in a three-way tie for the championship. This is contingent on Illinois turning back Northwestern and Wisconsin beating Minnesota. That would give all three 5-1 records since Michigan State's season is over.

Vote Would Determine

A vote would be called to decide whether Illinois or State would make the New Year's Day trip to Pasadena. Wisconsin is out of it by virtue of having played in the game last year.

Then the other conference bigwigs could start reaching for the headache powders. Whichever they voted in, probably would touch off criticism. For a time, it was thought that since Michigan State was on probation, the Illini would get it in the event of a tie.

But earlier in the week, most of the other schools' spokesmen disclaimed any intention of being influenced by the Spartans' probation. They'd make their choice strictly on football, they said.

Upset Could Solve It

Of course, if Northwestern upsets the Illini, the problem would vanish. Michigan State would go on its 5-1 record.

In the Pacific Coast Conference, both UCLA and Stanford have aspirations for the championship and they could wind up in a deadlock provided they defeat, respectively, Southern California and California. Both are favored.

Here, again, a vote would be required if both UCLA and Stanford win. In that case, the Indians would have definite advantage in view of the fact that they edged the Bruins, 21-20 earlier in the season.

The UCLA-Southern Cal contest, incidentally, will be the NCAA's television game of the week.

Irish Play Iowa

Meanwhile, Notre Dame, the No. 1 team in the Associated Press weekly poll, takes on Iowa, and for some unfathomable reason, many experts seem to think the Hawkeyes will make things tough for Frank Leahy's team. Not that Forest Evashevski's lads are not fine young men, but there is no reason to believe that they'll do any better against Notre Dame than the Irish's other victims.

Notre Dame has been installed a 13-point favorite.

The Ivy League has its big game of the year — Harvard vs Yale. This is the ONLY game of the season to the old grads of these venerable institutions and although no national titles will hinge on the outcome of the 70th meeting, it will attract a crowd of about 60,000 in the Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn. The Elis are favored by one touchdown.

Henry Steady In Bruin Net

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sugar Jim Henry's steady goaltending is one of the main reasons the Boston Bruins are in a challenging position in the National Hockey League race today.

The 33-year-old veteran registered his third shutout of the season Friday night as Boston blanked the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks to move to within two points of third place.

Last season Henry blanked the opposition seven times in 70 games as he led his team into the finals of the Stanley Cup playoffs. His three shutouts this season, two over Chicago, have come in 17 games and he has allowed only 2.18 goals per game.

The Bruins scored both their goals at Chicago Friday night within a space of 42 seconds late in the second period. Leo Labine drilled home the first tally at 14:55 and Doug Mohns' goal at 15:37 put Boston ahead 2-0.

Powers Nipped 46-44 By Rapid River Quint

POWERS — The Rapid River Rockets staved off a furious rush by the Powers Tigers in the final minutes of a wild basketball opener here last night to take a 46-44 decision.

Coach Keith Hindes' cagers led most of the way in the ball game and entered the fourth period with a 33-26 margin. But a determined bid by Powers set the stage for a hectic finish.

Waldon Johnson of Rapid River hit nine buckets and three free throws for 21 points and scoring honors for the evening. The 6-2 senior opened as a forward and moved to the center slot in the second period to do his damage.

John Hafeman, Powers forward, was the spearhead for the rally in the fourth quarter. He scored 12 of the Powers points in that period.

Three Rapid River players played the final period with four personal fouls. Powers lost Jim Sargent with two and a half minutes remaining in the game.

Rapid River won the Bee team preliminary by a 37-32 margin.

Rapid River will play its first Central League game of the season next Tuesday, entertaining Cooks. Powers will be idle until Dec. 2 when the Tigers play host to Republic.

Pain Killer Took Effect

TAUNTON, Mass. (AP) — After the dentist gave John Morris the first shot of novocaine he received a call that his wife had been taken to a hospital. He rushed home to discover it was a false alarm.

"I'll have to give you another shot," said the doctor when Morris returned. "The effects of the first have worn off."

"Doctor," Morris replied, "after what I've been through you could pull 'em all. I'd never feel it."

Catalog Postal Rates Boosted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized increases in the parcel post rates on catalogues, similar printed advertising matter and controlled circulation publications.

The advances in the catalogue and advertising matter group will amount to about 17 per cent. The rate on controlled circulation publications will be hiked about 10 per cent.

The latter publications are principally trade and technical publications circulated without a subscription charge to specialized groups.

The ICC earlier this year authorized a 36 per cent increase in parcel post rates generally, but at that time reserved a decision on the catalogue and controlled circulation groups.

The general increases, adding about 153 million dollars a year to parcel post charges, went into effect Oct. 1.

The additional rate hikes in the specialized groups are designed to add another 3½ million dollars a year to postal revenues—3 million from the catalogue and advertising matter group and about half a million from the controlled circulation publications.

The effective date of the new charges was left to the discretion of the postmaster general.

The higher parcel post charges were proposed by the outgoing democratic administration and adopted by the new administration in an effort to reduce the large postal deficit. The ICC specifically found that package mail was being handled at substantial losses.

Fat Saves Woman In 13-Story Fall

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Her excess weight may have helped save the life of a 45-year-old woman who fell 13 stories from a hotel window, Jefferson Hospital physicians say. That, plus the facts that a skylight broke her fall and she landed in a sitting position.

Staff doctors said Mrs. Betty Green Kaskin's plumpness cushioned the shock. And while in a sitting position, they explained, the body is best able to diffuse shock.

The woman, who is reported recovering from the fall Nov. 13, suffered a number of cracked vertebrae, broken ribs, a torn kidney and compound fractures of the right leg.

PET CROW IS PART OF THE HOUSEHOLD—Jim, the pet crow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Snider of Muskegon, doesn't actually like the order to dip into the kitchen sink, but he does like to take a bath. A bath is being prepared for the bird with the help of Craig Snider, one of six children in the family. Jim can say a few words which he learned from another pet in the household, a parakeet. Deplores Pressure On School Children

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Schools should take the pressure off children in the classrooms.

This opinion was expressed here by Dr. Gertrude M. Lewis of the U. S. Office of Education.

"Mental health problems are caused by the human organism being faced with problems it was not designed for and cannot deal with," she said. "Therefore the schools must cease holding these children to standards they cannot meet."

Two Fires Battled In Saginaw Thursday

SAGINAW (AP)—Firemen battled two fires within a few blocks of each other in the Saginaw business district Thursday.

No one was injured in the fires, one in an apartment and the other on the third floor of a dress shop.

Firemen had brought the apartment house fire under control when they were sent to the fire in the Sherman Dress Shop.

Hundreds of mid - afternoon shoppers watched firemen battle the blaze.

Employes tried at first to combat the dress shop blaze with fire extinguishers. Mrs. Alvin Slinkand said the blaze appeared to be centered in a stack of cardboard boxes.

These was no estimate of damage.

THE FLAT-FOOTED FUDDY

dreams of cracker-barrel days and can't stand products that sell too fast

A FLAT-FOOTED FUDDY is a storekeeper who refuses to stock what the customer wants.

Keeps the sales down that way — so that he doesn't have to refill shelves or bother with streams of busy customers.

Naturally the FUDDY is a rare creature, almost extinct.

The modern retailer, fortunately, carries the products that move the fastest — the brands that customers want.

He is sure, of course, that the brand preferences come from the influence of newspaper ads. Naturally. When he advertises he automatically uses the newspaper because he knows that just about all his customers read it.

In fact most retailers use it. Last year while national advertisers were spending $526 million in local newspapers, retailers were spending 85% of their money telling their customers where to buy those national brands.

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers!
